

Nazi Leader Killed

Rockwell Is Victim Of Sniper

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi party, was shot and killed today by a sniper, Arlington police said.

Police said Rockwell was in a parking lot across the street from the Nazi party headquarters in this Washington suburb when he was shot.

They said the sniper, who fired from the roof of a building, escaped.

Police said they were looking for a man dressed in a trench coat.

Police said the victim was struck in the chest in the 6000 block of Wilson Boulevard.

Arlington police officer John E. Mitchell said policemen who rushed to the scene reported the victim was Rockwell, 47, well known to most of the Arlington police force.

Rockwell apparently was killed instantly by the sniper's bullet.

Arlington police were combing the mixed commercial and residential area for the unknown killer.

An ambulance called to the scene remained for 30 minutes while the victim's body lay on the ground following the noon shooting.

Rockwell frequently appeared around the country leading counter-demonstrations during civil rights marches.

He often was accompanied at such demonstrations by members of his party dressed in uniforms patterned after those of German Storm Troopers of the Hitler era.

Rockwell also was a frequent speaker before college audiences. His appearances usually brought out pickets and hecklers and often produced controversy over whether he should be allowed to appear.

Rockwell, a tall man usually seen smoking a corncob pipe, and his followers frequently wore swastika armbands.

Pleas Of Guilty By A Banker

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A former Ottumwa, Mo., banker today pleaded guilty to charges of misapplication of funds and false entries in the books of the bank of which he was president for a short time.

The defendant is Blaine S. Fox, 33, former president of the Bank of Ottumwa. He now lives in Humboldt, Iowa.

Last April Fox agreed to buy the bank from its owners. The day he took over, the government charged, he directed the bank's cashier to prepare 11 drafts, varying in amount from $1 to $59,999, for a total of $124,250 on 11 correspondent banks of the Bank of Ottumwa. The government charged that none was entered as liabilities of the bank and that the total was in excess of the capital funds of the bank.

The government said the alleged crimes were discovered during an investigation by state and federal bank examiners, on April 29.

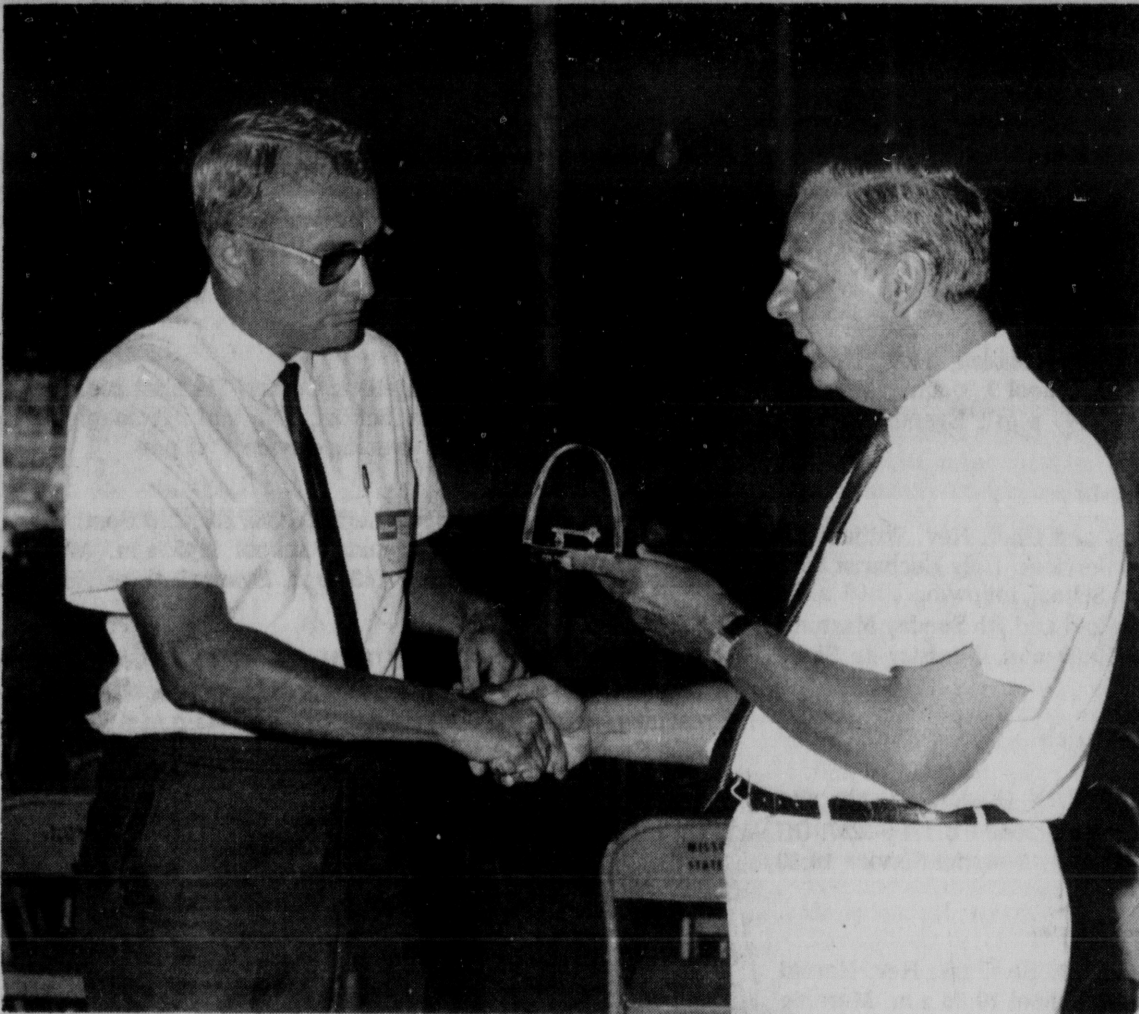

Fox who formerly was executive vice president of the Bank of Springfield, Ill., pleaded guilty to information in 22 counts, two for each draft.

Judge John W. Oliver of U.S. District Court, ordered a presentence investigation and released him on a $1,000 bond to return to Iowa.

Bruce Houdek, assistant district attorney, said there was no prior action in the case before today's appearance. He said Fox and his attorney were aware of the background and were invited to appear before the judge this morning.

Fox purchased the bank from Robert S. Dorsey and William C. Hines, Brookfield, Mo., owners of several banks in Northern Missouri.

The bank was reimbursed for the entire amount by the bonding company while examiners were still there, according to Dorsey.

Mayor A. J. Cervantes of St. Louis, right, presents Sedalia Mayor Ralph Walker with a replica of the St. Louis Archway. The presentation was made at a reception welcoming the St. Louis mayor and approximately 100 members of the St. Louis Ambassadors Club to the State Fair.

Smoking Ordinance Enforced

Jack Douglas Finnigan, Neenah, Wisc., was fined $100 in municipal court Friday morning after pleading guilty to a charge of smoking in bed and causing a fire.

The charge followed a run by Sedalia firemen to Bothwell Hotel at 3:41 p.m. Thursday. Firemen extinguished a fire in one of the hotel's rooms and said the cause of the fire was smoking in bed. Damage was set at $50.

Finnigan was charged under an ordinance passed by the city council in 1961. According to Charles L. Homan, municipal court clerk, Finnigan was unable to pay the fine and consequently was given a jail sentence, which may run as long as 90 days.

The fine imposed on Finnigan was the maximum fine allowed by the ordinance.

Liquor Bill Is Signed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Gov. Warren E. Hearnes signed the resort liquor bill today making special note that the constitutional objections filed by some members of the legislature should be decided in the courts rather than the executive office.

The bill will permit the sale of liquor by the drink at resorts located in a county bordering a lake having at least 250 miles of shoreline.

The resort must also consist of at least 40 rooms and have a restaurant that derives at least 60 per cent of its gross income from the sale of food, or may be a restaurant that does a gross volume of $100,000 per year.

List Locations

'Spot Improvements' In Area Road Safety

The Federal Government and the State of Missouri are cooperating in a $12 million "spot improvement" safety program aimed at eliminating high-accident locations from the State's highway system. The program is expected to accelerate to a $94 million level in the next two years.

The spot improvement program in Missouri and the other States involves such improvements as widening bridges, traffic lanes and shoulders; realigning curves and slopes for better sight distances; reconstruction and channelization of intersections; installing uniform control devices; installation of guard rails; and railroad grade crossing elimination or protection.

The Bureau of Public Roads reports that across the nation there are 2,833 Federally aided spot improvement projects programmed at a cost of approximately $515,873,000. A recent nationwide inventory showed there are 15,000 such locations which could be corrected at a total cost of around $1.5 billion.

Mr. Bridwell noted, too, that the Congress last year enacted into law "the greatest and most comprehensive attack on highway accidents in the history of automotive transportation—a program setting performance standards for motor vehicles and offering grants for States and local communities to expand and improve their own highway safety program."

Included in a list of the Federal-aid spot improvement projects programmed thus far in Missouri are:

COOPER COUNTY—State Route F at Stephens Branch in Speed; replacement of bridge and alignment of approaches; $72,800.

State Route O south of Pisgah; replacement of two narrow bridges; $116,480.

JOHNSON COUNTY—State Route O north of Magnolia; replacement of bridge and culvert; $49,920.

U.S. Route 50 from 2.5 miles west of State Route M east to State Route 58; creation of a divided highway; $2,307,536.

LAFAYETTE COUNTY—State Route P north of Dover; improved geometrics at culverts; $36,400.

MONITEAU COUNTY—State Route CC northwest and south of High Point; replacement of three narrow bridges; $230,880.

MORGAN COUNTY—State Route D south of Syracuse; replacement of two narrow bridges; $93,600.

State Route CC at Haw Creek northwest of Stover; replacement of bridge and correction of approach alignment; $112,320.

PETTIS COUNTY—U.S. 65 from Saline County line to south of State Route J; widening road and bridges; $1,715,224.

SALINE COUNTY—State Route M at Bear Creek north of Gilliam; replacement of bridge and approaches; $67,600.

U.S. 65 from Pettis County line north 1.6 miles; widening road; $282,228. State Route BB at Salt Fork Creek south of U.S. 65; preliminary engineering for replacement of substandard, narrow bridge; $5,600.

Highway 50 Plan

The Missouri State Highway Commission has approved a tentative plan for improving a 3.7-mile stretch of U.S. Highway 50 from southeast of Dresden to Sedalia in Pettis County to provide a future dual-lane facility.

The action was taken at the commission's August meeting in Jefferson City following extensive engineering studies to determine the best methods necessary to facilitate the movement of traffic in and through the area it serves.

The approved line begins at a point on a previously approved location of Highway 50 about a mile southeast of Dresden. It extends southeasterly for about six-tenths of a mile on a new location south of the present highway to near the present Highway 50. The county road to the west will be carried along the south side of the proposed new route to a crossing and connection with the present highway and Route MM.

It continues southeast parallel with the present highway but on the south side of it, crossing Muddy Creek on proposed new bridges and passing through the quarry on the southwest side of the present Highway 50.

At a point about a half mile southeast of Muddy Creek it will transition from the 24-foot wide pavements with 60-foot median to two 24-foot pavements plus a 6-foot flush median.

From here it continues on easterly with the centerline of the new facility to coincide approximately with the centerline of the present highway with only minor shifts to minimize property damage. It proceeds easterly to an intersection with Main Street at Sedalia. The entrances for West Main Street will be realigned with the outer roads to provide right angle entrances to the new facility.

Continuing on easterly it enters the City of Sedalia and terminates on present U.S. Route 50 about 1,500 feet east of the Sedalia west city limits.

Good Representation Of Future Generation

Kids Day at Fair Is Well Attended

Kids Day at the Missouri State Fair today brought out a good representation of the future generation along with thousands of parents. The "kids" were admitted free to the fair and enjoyed cut rate prices on various midway rides. The feature events on the program include motorcycle races in the afternoon and the Missouri State Championship races for modified stock cars.

Today an array of Missouri high school bands will be on the grounds from Schuyler-Lancaster and the Schuyler-Lancaster Junior band; Holden, Green Ridge, Glasgow, Shaughnessy-Twirlers, Glasgow, Russellville, Steelville, Norborne, Pleasant Hill, Plattsburg.

Those here on Thursday were the Grundy - Galt R-5 school of Galt and Humphreys, Oak Grove and Slater.

For the first time in the history of the Missouri State Fair something is offered to the young exhibitors of the 4-H and Future Farmers of America—a chance to sell their prize winning animals at auction.

The auction will handle 37 head of cattle and hogs for these proud youngsters who desire to let their animals go. The sale is strictly optional as far as the Fair is concerned, but it gives these young exhibitors an opportunity of being able to sell their animals, if they desire, as well as take home their ribbons, plaques and other trophies.

Ray Johnson, Belton, will call the auction.

Saturday, bands will be from Marshfield, California, Waverly, Buffalo Gals drum and bugle corps, Fayette, and El Dorado Springs.

Thursday, Kansas City, St. Louis and Sedalia participated in the Big Thursday program, with delegations coming from both metropolitan areas. The Kansas Citizens had a delegation of 22 who arrived on a chartered bus while the St. Louis Mayor's Ambassadors arrived by planes at the Sedalia Memorial Airport—18 planes with 100 people. Sedalians were all over the place.

A rivalry may have been inspired by these two metropolitan areas in arranging for future delegations to the fair, "like it used to be in early days when special trains brought our people to the fair," an old timer remarked.

The two groups arrived at the fair at different times, but each was greeted by Commissioner of Agriculture Dexter Davis and Secretary of the Fair, W. C. Askew. The Grundy R-5 high school band from Galt and Humphreys, Mo., lead both delegations in a parade to the Administration building. Shuttle buses took the visitors on a tour of the grounds after which the visitors disbanded, and went visiting the various exhibits on their own.

At the noonday luncheon at the home of Secretary and Mrs. Askew on the fairgrounds, rivalry talk began to be made between the two delegations.

Jeffery Hilleson, City Councilman was elected the Kansas City spokesman, his qualification being, "he was the only man wearing a tie." Hilleson gave a few remarks saying "Kansas Citizens were not able to provide a larger delegation this year because they were all at home working to build" and inferred trying to get the athletic problems settled. "You people in St. Louis have it made. But we are coming along fast and will have a bigger delegation next year than St. Louis."

Among the Kansas Citizens other than Hilleson were City Councilman Sal Capra, Mrs. Sara Snow, and Larry Blankenship. Judge Sam Montague, of the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Mayor Alphonso Cervantes, who headed the St. Louis delegation said, "We in St. Louis are desiring to take a more active part in the affairs of Missouri and want to help other communities build." He then referred to the big delegations of St. Louis people who used to come to the fair. "But," he said, "over the years we have been slipping. We are going to do better and challenge Kansas City to the larger delegation next year."

The St. Louis delegation, then

Cost Of Living In Big Jump

WASHINGTON (AP)—Living costs climbed four-tenths of one per cent in July for the biggest jump in nine months, the Labor Department said today.

Grocery prices led the rise, increasing nine-tenths of one per cent and Assistant Commissioner Arnold Chase of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said the usual food declines in August probably won't be as large as usual.

The four-tenths of one per cent general rise brought the bureau's consumer price index to 116.5, meaning it cost $11.65 last month to purchase typical family goods and services that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

Consumer services continued their steady rise, averaging nearly 5 per cent on an annual basis. These included a nine-tenths of one per cent rise in hospital costs, a 1.3 per cent increase in home mortgage interest and five-tenths of one per cent rise in property taxes.

Living costs have risen a total of 1.6 per cent so far this year. Chase said the bureau is sticking with its prediction of an over-all increase of 2.5 per cent for the year, but conceded for the first time "it might be slightly above."

Consumer prices last year soared 3.3 per cent in the biggest rise in a decade.

Outdoor Grants

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation announced two grants to Missouri Thursday.

One was to the Missouri Inter-agency Council for outdoor Recreation at Jefferson City, for $51,200, to be matched by the state for development of water, sewer and other facilities at Bennett Spring State Park.

The other was $28,586 to Liberty, to be matched by the city, for development of outdoor recreation facilities at Bennett Park.

"Unreality"

Church Buildings Speak A Message

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Church buildings speak. Loudly or softly. Meekly or grandly. Plainly or pretentiously. Most of them today, as gauged by one of the country's leading church architects, are misstating their message.

"Ninety per cent of them express a sense of unreality," says Edward A. Sovik, president of the Guild for Religious Architecture. "They imply that religion is an exotic fantasy, separated from the real."

"To the extent that they do that, they're profane." Yet, he adds, this impression is conveyed by a large proportion of church edifices, both inside and outside, with their profusion of artificial effects and devices to produce a contrived atmosphere.

"Religion is a search for the real in existence, and to surround it with ersatz materials and a fake kind of environment is to deny its reality," he said. "Any pretense in religious architecture is a profanation, and there's plenty of it."

Sovik, 49, of Northfield, Minn., was interviewed in connection with the first International Congress on Religion, Architecture and the Visual Arts starting here Monday, the most broad-scale gathering of its kind.

It is sponsored by 35 religious and professional organizations in 19 nations, including major Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Jewish bodies in this country.

Its general chairman, John E. Morse, of New York, a building specialist for the United Church of Christ, said about 1,500 participants from 30 countries are expected to take part in the effort to clarify and evaluate current trends in church art and architecture.

"A revolution is going on in the churches, liturgically and architecturally," Sovik said. "Not just a ripple in Christian history but an actual revolution."

"That changes are coming rapidly is no longer the issue—that's settled, it's happening. The churches are trying to become modern, rather than historical imitations. The issue is what makes a good modern church."

About that, he added, churches are in a "frightful flux" of "vast confusion," with their structural styles and interiors conveying a conglomeration of attitudes, often out of step with worship and beliefs.

"A church building either forms or deforms the community within it," he said.

The sharpened concept of worship as a communal act of mutual participation, he said, has made obsolete the old "two-space" types of churches, with a chancel and nave, setting apart "performance and audience."

This construction not only separates people from clergy but also from each other by the long, narrow, individually isolating interiors, Sovik said. "It can destroy the possibility of common participation."

"Some 20th century structures are built for 12th century liturgies," he added.

He said horseshoe-shaped seating seems to provide the most intimate, family like arrangement. Churches "in the round" don't work well, he said, since the minister must have his back to part of the people.

In the present welter of construction patterns, he said, a "fantastic amount" of it obscures the genuineness of religion by trading on novelties and gimmicks "that have absolutely no connection with truth."

He cited: —Church steeples pointing skyward "like fingers as if God is up here," when in actuality

Judeo-Christian conviction asserts that "God enters the world and meets man in the realities of this world and life."

—Monumental-type church buildings, implying their own prestige and self-importance, as if God is enshrined in grand buildings." Sovik added: "An abomination. That kind of God is dead."

—Use of archaic, mystifying symbols, whose meaning is unknown to most people, along with sundry odd, esoteric decorations. "If the church wants to be current, it better use current symbols," Sovik said.

—Pompous, imposing types of buildings that seem to seek to dominate by authoritarian power rather than to serve, illuminate and dignify human life, which is a basic element of the Judeo-Christian faith.

—Tricky church interiors with dim lights, shadowy vaults, carpeted silence, obstructing pillars and various illusory effects designed to create a mystical atmosphere as if religion involves escape from the real world.

This makes for "a sort of hallucinogenic experience, a kind of brainwashing," Sovik said. It "seems intended to manipulate" by artifice, when religion actually aims to "heighten the awareness of the real and true."

"The Hebrew-Christian tradition asserts that God is present and active in this world and we confront him not by escaping our ordinary existence and being transported into some staged atmosphere, but in our everyday human experience," Sovik said.

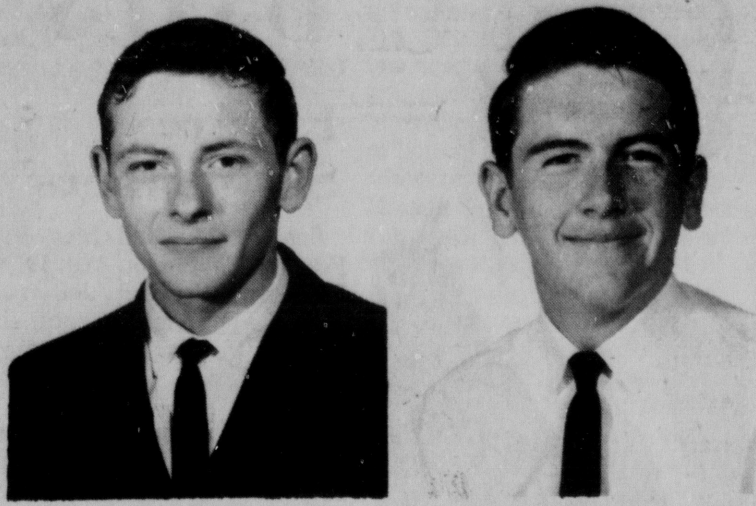

But many church buildings imply the opposite, he added, suggesting that "religion is segregated from life in some other-worldly establishment," isolated from the world, rather than being directly relevant to it.

Sovik, a Lutheran and head of a Minnesota architectural firm, studied theology and later served as a Marine captain in the Pacific in World War II, prior to getting his architectural degree at Yale.

As he sees it, anything meant to dissimulate or create fraudulent impressions, such as steel trusswork camouflaged to look like wood, is "absolutely illegitimate" in churches. "Our obligation is to deal with truth."

Churches should be "forthright, ingenious, unaffected," he said. They should reflect "the real and true," the conviction that there is "order in the universe," and also the ethical compassion of religion.

They also should express the holiness or mystery of life, Sovik added, but he said this inefable, unexplainable quality should be mirrored honestly through beauty, rather than by contrived mysteriousness.

Country Club Set Hates Inflation

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Prices seem to be rising everywhere.

At the country club, for instance, they're complaining not only of the summer sun searing the greensward but also about the persistent inflation that is burning up their green dollar bills.

The country club set feels it is being scorched both ways, and now, thanks to an accounting firm which surveyed the devastation, it can produce the statistics too.

During the past 10 years, this study shows, the country club member's dues have increased about 47 per cent. And his other country club purchases and expenses have risen 16 per cent.

The heat seems to be on the city clubs as well. Not only are annual dues some 36 per cent higher in the past decade, but each club member is spending 6 per cent more for food, drink, lodging and incidentals.

It does no good to point out to the club set that a 6 per cent increase in some items is a lot less than the rise in the cost of living during that time. Everyone, rich and poor, bemoans inflation. Nobody can afford it.

Here are the costs of one year of country club life as compiled by Harris, Kerr, Forster & Co., a firm which specializes in hotels, clubs and the feeding business. Regular member dues $497; food purchases $312; beverages $163; sports activities $74; "all other services," which presumably includes the cost of Turkish baths and shoe shines, $136.

The city cousins spend a lot less but, unlike the family-oriented country clubs, city clubs are often for men alone. Dues in the past year averaged $268, food $213, beverages $95, room rentals $50 and incidentals $70.

An additional set of figures proves a point that all but some keen observers of social behavior frequently overlook—that the attraction of the club is not so much for vigorous activity as for more sedentary pursuits.

Of the 50 clubs studied—and the accounting firm assures us that they are representative geographically and by size—45.5 per cent of income was from the dining room. Food was by far the largest expenditure.

You might believe that golf and other physical activities would at least take second place to food. They don't though. In fact, sports activities account for less than 11 per cent of expenditures at country clubs.

In second place, both at city and country clubs, was the cost of beverages. At country clubs this category provided 23.8 per cent of income, at city clubs 22.2 per cent.

WHO LOCKED THE DOOR

In these changing times we find that Religious Services are changing also. Many who once attended Church on the Lord's Day Evening now believe it to be old fashioned, if you still believe that God prefers you to be in his house on the Lord's Day for the Evening Worship Service, and if you find that someone has locked the doors of your Church, then come and worship with us. We would love to have you.

Henry J. Kaiser

Dies In Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Henry J. Kaiser, giant builder of dams, ships, automobiles and hospitals, died Thursday in Honolulu.

The 85-year-old industrialist died of circulatory problems. Death came peacefully in his home while he slept, his office said.

At his side was his wife, Alyce, a nurse Kaiser married after the death of his first wife in 1951, and his son, Edgar Kaiser and his wife.

Kaiser enjoyed good health and an agile mind up to the time of his death. He had vowed to live to 100.

In recent years, his driving pace had slowed somewhat, but he continued to keep watch over his multimillion-dollar industrial empire, now headed by Edgar.

Rising early each morning, Kaiser customarily began his day with a series of telephone calls to Kaiser executives around the world and kept in close touch with his son, Edgar, in Oakland.

The elder Kaiser helped in the construction of the West's giant dams, Hoover, Bonneville, Grand Coulee and Shasta. During World War II, Kaiser's seven shipyards produced 1,500 ships, nearly one-third of the nation's total tonnage.

He turned over the reins of his corporation to Edgar and moved to Hawaii in February 1954—but not to retire.

He immediately set about redoing the Hawaiian Islands.

Kaiser transformed Waikiki slum into a plush hotel resort, built a hospital, organized a radio and television station, and was deeply involved in developing a model community, Hawaii-Kai, at the time of his death.

Home, with the Rev. Leach of the First Christian Church officiating.

Ed Woodrell will sing, "Lead On, Kindly Light," accompanied by Mrs. Keith Maynard.

Born at Hagerstown, Maryland, Dec. 15, 1879, the daughter of the late Frederick and Barbara Goucher Lumm she came here in 1908 from Oelwein, Iowa.

She was a member of the First Christian Church, Loyal Rebekah Lodge 260, and the Sedalia Chapter 57 of the Order of the Eastern Star.

She is survived by a son, Lee K. Smith, Kansas City; a daughter, Mrs. R. V. (Lucy) Meyers, Jackson, Fla.; a half brother, Joe Bowers, Washington, D. C.; three grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren, and was preceded in death by her husband who died Dec. 24, 1959, five half sisters, two sisters, and one brother.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

KC Talent Exhibited At Fair

Kansas City talent came to the surface on Kansas City Day at the 1967 Missouri State Fair today.

For any other painter, an award of "Honorable Mention" would be real encouragement, but for Leroy Perriguy, 5401 Hedges Street, Kansas City, Mo., it was a true triumph.

He is crippled. Confined to a bed since 1952 because of rheumatic fever, complicated by severe bloodinfections and rheumatoid arthritis, Leroy has only partial use of his limbs.

Painting has taken the fore in his life, since he invented his own device for implementing the limited movements of his arms. The plexiglass device holds a pen and paintbrush, and allows horizontal and vertical motions.

At this year's Fine Arts judging at the Missouri State Fair, Leroy won an honorable mention with a still life portrait of a pair of boots.

He is no stranger to success at the state fair, however. Last year, he won a "Painting of the Day" award with an oil painting entitled "Wagon Wheels."

This year, he entered three paintings in the Fine Arts competition.

"This is one of the most unusual examples of what a talented person can do with a limited universe to work from," said Mrs. William C. Hopkins, fair superintendent of Fine Arts.

On the 10th day of August, 1967, R. E. Wood was appointed the administrator of the estate of Elpos Rumsey, deceased, by the Probate Court of Pettis County, Missouri. The business address of the administrator is 2912 East 12th Street, Sedalia, Missouri, whose telephone number is TA 7-0172 and the attorney is Henry C. Salter whose business address is Third National Bank Bldg., Sedalia, Missouri, and whose telephone number is TA 6-6611.

All creditors of said decedent are notified to file claims in court within nine months from the date of this notice or to be forever barred. Open Housing Laws No Quick Solution

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Proposals to outlaw racial discrimination in housing—a major sore point with civil rights campaigners—won approval in five states this year.

Similar legislation fell by the wayside in four others.

Open housing laws were passed in Iowa, Vermont, Maryland, Hawaii and Washington state. They were defeated in Illinois, West Virginia, Kansas and Utah.

Twenty-one states now have some kind of open occupancy legislation.

The most widely watched maneuvering in the field this year was in two big states, each with more than one million Negroes—Illinois, where attempts at a fair housing law came to naught, and California, where efforts to modify the existing law failed.

An Associated Press survey showed the statutes vary in detail and built-in limitations.

The Iowa Legislature made it unlawful for an owner or real estate dealer to refuse to rent, lease or sell on the basis of race or religion. The law doesn't apply to two-flat buildings or the renting of rooms in one- or two-family dwellings if the owner or a member of his family lives there.

Vermont's new law has similar provisions.

The bill enacted in Maryland excludes all housing completed before June 1, 1967, and apartments completed before June 1, 1968, if the permit for construction was obtained before June 1, 1967.

It covers new apartments, except owner-buildings with 12 or fewer units. The law also covers houses if the owner owns five or more, which points it primarily at new developments. The measure forbids blockbusting tactics and discrimination by mortgage lenders.

The Hawaii Legislature outlawed any form of racial discrimination in leasing, selling or renting.

Under the bill approved in Washington state, the state Real Estate Commission may revoke the license of a real estate broker if it finds he has committed two acts of racial or religious discrimination in the sale or rental of housing during a six-month period. The legislation does not cover owners directly. The measure is subject to a referendum in the November 1968 election.

Fair housing proposals failed this year in Kansas and Utah. An open occupancy clause was removed before adoption of the Human Rights Act by the 1967 West Virginia Legislature.

The battle waxed and waned though this year's session of the Illinois Legislature. Civil rights leaders demanded that the state suffer the loss of a $375 million atom smasher planned for Weston if the lawmakers failed to enact of freedom of residence bill.

But the legislators didn't, and the state kept the big federal installation anyway.

The issue has become serialized in California.

In 1963, the California Legislature approved the Rumford Act. It forbids discrimination in 65 to 70 per cent of all housing in the state. It covers real estate dealers and owners of apartments of five units or more and any housing financed with assistance from the Federal Housing Administration, the Veterans Administration or other public agencies.

But in 1964 the voters approved Proposition No. 13, a constitutional amendment repealing the act and stipulating that no such legislation should be passed in the future.

Still later, Proposition 14 was declared unconstitutional by the California Supreme Court, which was upheld by the United States Supreme Court. As a result, the Rumford Act remains in effect.

So this year moves were made in the legislature to repeal or modify it, steps favored by Gov. Ronald Reagan. But they didn't succeed, and the lawmakers adjourned Aug. 7 with the law unchanged.

During the session, Jesse M. Unruh, Democratic speaker of the California Assembly and a leader in antidiscrimination legislation, expressed reservations about the effectiveness of open housing laws.

"I have consistently maintained that there is little evidence that fair housing legislation in most other places where it has been enacted has resulted in significant progress in the desegregation of housing," he said.

In that connection, some figures are available from New York state, where a fair housing accommodations in the state.

The research department of the New York State Commission for Human Rights reports: Last year 632 complaints charging discrimination were filed with the commission, all but 40 of them from Negroes. In 281 of the cases probable discrimination was found. And in 174 of those cases the complainants either obtained housing or refused the housing that was offered to them.

Colorado has a fair housing law, put through in 1959 and strengthened in 1965, that even covers the sale, lease or rental of vacant lots. The Denver Housing Authority, while refusing to estimate the number of Negroes in white neighborhoods, says they are living in almost every residential area, including suburban districts. The Fair Housing Center, a separate agency, figures that about 7,000 of Denver's 40,000 Negroes live in predominantly white sections.

A Pennsylvania fair housing law enacted in 1961 forbids discrimination in the sale or rental of residences with the exception of homes or duplex dwellings in which the owner lives. The State Human Relations Commission calculates that this exemption excludes almost 66 per cent of the housing transactions in Pennsylvania.

Freedom of residence statutes, like others, are open to revision. In Nebraska, for instance, a 1965 law had the effect of prohibiting discrimination by real estate dealers in the sale or rental of property unless the owner directed them to observe restrictions. This year the legislature adopted a bill to make it a misdemeanor to bring any pressure on a property owner to prevent him from selling or renting to anyone he might choose.

Indiana law writers approved a measure in 1965 to outlaw racial discrimination in the sale or rental of housing other than owner-occupied buildings of less than four dwelling units. They adopted an amendment this year which permits neighborhood associations to draw up a plan for gradual integration, subject to endorsement by the Indiana Civil Rights Commission. Under the change, housing could be denied on racial grounds if the denial would help achieve or maintain racial balance in an integrated area.

Oregon has a statute forbidding discrimination by real estate dealers in selling or renting property. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People asked the 1967 legislature to add some teeth—permit any aggrieved person to collect damages up to $500 in cases of discrimination. The proposal passed the House but died in the Senate.

Open occupancy legislation was enacted in Massachusetts in 1959, in Alaska in 1963, and in Rhode Island, Maine, Wisconsin and Ohio in 1965.

Michigan has a state Civil Rights Commission, and the attorney general ruled it has authority to enforce civil rights in housing. The bulk of the states without fair housing laws are in the southern half of the nation, where Negroes constitute up to one-third of the population, or in lightly populated northern or western states such as New Hampshire, North Dakota and Idaho.

States which have some type of housing law are Alaska, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Hawaii, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

What's Going on After 3?

It's a far cry from days early in this century when Sedalia youngsters were warned to scurry home after sounding of the curfew bell atop Fire Station No. 2 on South Kentucky avenue. Juveniles then didn't have pop's auto to pick up companions and spin over the streets and around drive-ins. They played out on cobble-stone corners beneath carbon lights. Nine o'clock was the limit.

Now deadline is midnight and teenagers growl if they are told to get in by then. This is typical of other towns, too, as evidenced by the following comment in the Boonville Daily News:

"What some youngsters can find so appealing in prowling about at 3 a.m. is a wonder of this age. It's not only done in our town, but most others as well.

"At a wreck a week or so ago, and with the street blocked both ways by police cars, within 15 minutes there were at least 20 youngsters standing around trying to find out what it was all about. The point is, where did they all come from at that hour, and so quickly? Evidently they were riding about just to see what might be going on.

"Not so long ago, parents were most strict in their instructions that son or daughter be home by a decent hour. Three a.m. is not a decent hour. No doubt the majority of parents still insist on arrival home at a respectable hour, but there must be a number who have failed to get the point over, or who have not even tried.

"What in the world is there to do in Boonville at 3 a.m.—or most other small towns? Maybe the older generation is not 'hep', or are just a bunch of 'old fogies', living in the 'dark ages'. We doubt it, and will always believe that kids out late hours, except on a very special occasion, are apt to run into trouble."

Trouble is putting it mildly judging from some of the episodes we have heard that occur long after Sedalia's midnight curfew.

But blaming the police for not running the 17-year-old youngsters off the streets isn't reasonable when the latter are packed in a friend's jalopy. If cars were stopped for a check after midnight, there's bound to be a lot of guess work on who is over and who is under 17, especially those who wear flowing hippie hair, beards and mustaches, unless they carry a birth certificate.

However, any teenagers out as late as 3 o'clock in the morning are suspect and deserve to be questioned without a squawk from parents that their children are being harassed by law enforcement authorities.

Equal Aid for Cities Is Proposed

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — There has been a lot of oratory lately about whether the taxpayers are spending too much or too little to help the big cities. The House made its attitude clear by refusing to spend $40 million over three years to exterminate rats and the diseases they spread.

In this connection, it is worth examining what Congress has appropriated to prevent farm diseases which can also be passed on to people. These are beneficial programs which should be continued but should also be balanced by equal aid for the cities.

Because the old men who run Congress come chiefly from rural areas, however, the battle against farm diseases gets appropriations and the proposals to fight city diseases do not.

Most of the powerful committee chairmen come from rural towns and do not understand big-city needs. Of the 16 Senate committees, 13 are headed by Senators from small towns. The Agriculture Committee, which takes a benevolent attitude toward rural problems, has 77-year-old Sen. Allen Ellender of Houma, La., as its chairman. The Public Welfare Committee, which is supposed to concern itself with city problems, is headed by 73-year-old Sen. Lister Hill of Montgomery, Ala.

Of the 20 House chairmen, 16 come from small towns. The Agriculture Committee is chaired by 68-year-old Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco, Tex., and the Public Welfare Committee is run by 66-year-old Rep. Carl Perkins of Hindman, Ky.

The money must come from the Senate Appropriations Committee, whose chairman is 90-year-old Sen. Carl Hayden of Phoenix, Ariz., and the House Appropriations Committee, which is headed by 68-year-old Rep. George Manon of Lubbock, Tex.

—Farms vs. Slums—

Here's how these aging, rural-minded leaders are spending the taxpayers' money to protect their own constituencies:

Bang's Disease, which causes abortion in cows and hogs, can be passed on to people as undulant fever. The federal government pays a farmer up to $50 bonus to butcher a cow if it contracts Bang's Disease. He also collects the regular market price for the meat. In most states, cattle herds must be tested each year; the cows are either certified as Bang's-free or they are slaughtered. The program costs the taxpayers $21.5 million a year, plus another $250,000 for research. This is important to the nation's health but no more important, say, than an annual inspection program to certify apartment houses as rat-free.

Weed control costs the taxpayers $26.9 million doled out to the states, state universities and research stations, another $2.7 million spent for experimentation. Still another $3.2 million goes to eliminate witchweed, a parasitic growth that destroys corn crops in some southern states. Water hyacinth control costs the taxpayers an additional $6.7 million a year to keep this weed out of southern rivers. Water hyacinths choke the channels and waterways of the south to a point that fish are unable to live and motorboats get their propellers fouled. The grand total is close to $39 million, considerably more than the federal government spends to eliminate the weed of juvenile delinquency in the big cities.

Bovine Tuberculosis, if transmitted to human beings, can cause hunchbacks and other malformations. All cattle in the country must be tested once a year for TB, though the chief cost is borne by the cattle owners. However, the taxpayers put up $3.4 million each year for surveys and testing. The same amount would go a long way toward testing the nation's slum children for sickness.

The Farm Extension Service draws $76.3 million annually from the treasury to help farm families with their production and marketing problems, home economics and family living, and the 4-H movement for farm youth. For example, the 4-H Clubs — "Head, Hand, Heart and Health" — have been teaching better citizenship to farm boys and girls for a long time. Similar programs have been needed in the big cities. The home economics training, available to rural housewives, should also have been offered to slum women.

Yet another $2.3 million is spent by the government on improving the breeding strains of cattle, hogs, sheep and goats. Like the other farm programs, most of the cost is paid by city and suburban taxpayers. But the congressmen from the country, whose seniority has given them control of Congress, appropriate the money for their constituents and neglect the teeming cities.

—Cold War At Home—

A great bureaucratic battle has been racing behind the scenes ever since President Johnson tried to merge the Labor and Commerce Departments.

There were whisperings that still other shake-ups would follow. Suddenly, rival agencies began raiding one another's territory and stealing one another's functions.

The Commerce Department, through its alliances on Capitol Hill, successfully defended its borders against the Labor Department. But Labor struck out in other directions. It started flanking movements to capture the Job Corps away from the Office of Economic Opportunity and to grab the manpower-training functions from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Under fire from the anti-poverty guns, OEO is now fighting desperately to defend its territorial integrity against half a dozen departments.

The two newest bureaucratic kingdoms — the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Department of Transportation — already have started battling over the urban mass transportation function (and the appropriations that go with them). Several other agencies have also revived ancient animosities and petty rivalries. Out of it is almost certain to come more reorganization.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Maurine Scruton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Scruton, 712 West Third street, was hostess at a dance at the Sedalia Country club honoring Patty Ann Sullivan who will attend the high school academy at Mount St. Scholastica, Atchison, Kans. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sullivan, 1004 East 16th street, assisted Mr. and Mrs. Scruton in chaperoning.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The contract for remodeling of Whittier School building according to plans and specifications of Architect T. W. Bast, was awarded by the Board of Education to the Salisbury Sash and Door Co., for $30,677. George Suter was awarded the contract for heating and plumbing for $2,700.

Ah, Sweet Mystery

One of the minor mysteries of this scientific age is the growing popularity of the mystifying Ouija board.

The little board, with its heart-shaped indicator that spells out answers when lightly touched with the fingertips, has been around since 1892. But sales this year promise to triple 1966 figures and are running six times ahead of 1965.

Maybe it's the uncertainties of the world situation. Or maybe it's because the board is now in mass production, at the rate of two million a year. The makers of the game say the oracle won't tell them.

One reason suggested is that the board works best when played by two people of the opposite sex, seated so that their knees are touching. Even nonbelievers in fortune-telling are willing to spend a lot of time at that sort of thing.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — I've heard that one of the tax benefits for older people is to be able to sell your home at a profit and not be taxed on that money. Is that true?

A — Yes it is if certain conditions are met. You will not have to pay tax on the profit if you were 65 or older before the date of the sale, the adjusted sales price was $20,000 or less, and you owned and occupied the house as your principal residence for at least 5 of the 8 years before the sale.

If you sold the house for over $20,000 and the other conditions are met, then only a portion of the profit will be taxable.

Gain excluded under this provision of law can be elected only once.

This benefit is explained in the booklet, Tax Benefits for Older Americans, Document No. 5569. For a free copy, drop a post card to your IRS district director.

Need: Space-age Thinking By Our Top Theologians

By DAVID POLING
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Flying saucers have always been considered a good laugh, sort of a stepchild to the entertainment business. On the sober side, for some 20 years, "sightings" have been reported and evaluated by the Air Force. Last year more than 1,000 sightings were officially considered by "Operation Blue Book" at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio.

Most of these reported incidents were explained convincingly to have been aircraft, satellites, weather balloons, clouds, fireworks, birds and swamp gas. "Insufficient data" is the name of the file for those sightings that remain a mystery.

My guess is that a large segment of the public believes in flying saucers. UFO—unidentified flying objects—have been seen and experienced by too many police officers, airline pilots and respected citizens. They cannot be written off as the imagination of sick people or the pranks of advanced science students. They are a source of fascination and flourish in a society friendly to scientific discovery and adventure.

Currently, James Mosely's Saucer News (Fort Lee, N.J.) is the best publication in the field of what's going on or up in the airborne world. His June UFOlogist convention in New York attracted more than 12,000 people. (Some New Yorkers felt that Chock Full of Nuts should have sponsored the convention). Mosely, with this pack, is more of a ringmaster than a moderator but does give a balanced lecture.

In the past six months he has spoken at the University of Delaware, Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta, Iona College in New Rochelle, N.Y., St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia and a large convention of General Electric engineers in Schenectady, N.Y.

Anything as baffling and bewildering as UFOs is going to attract a wild and spooky element. Unhappily, the books on religion and flying saucers do little for science and nothing for religion.

Most of them have been written by daydreaming fundamentalists who ride the crest of public curiosity. Since the Old and New Testaments have their puzzling events and confusing prophecies, they are willing to launch a flying saucer as the logical explanation of every question mark. Virginia Brasington's "Flying Saucers and the Bible" is a good example of this absurd scholarship. Did Ezekiel have a vision of celestial glory? Of course not, she writes. He was flying around in a saucer that made him practically a commuter between the Temple and the desert.

Is Jeremiah taken into captivity? No, he went to Ireland in the friendly skies of a flying machine.

Do the Wise Men follow a star to the Christ Child in Bethlehem? Certainly not, stupid. They were in touch with a divine satellite that hedgedhopped over the countryside and then stopped above the stable.

These erratic writings point up a need for "space-age thinking" by our top theologians. A good assignment for any major seminary.

The most important result of this emphasis that is peddled in print and heard on the radio is the distraction from the meaning of Biblical truth. The heart of the scripture is not the means but the message. Ezekiel may have some weird language and Jeremiah may have an inconclusive ending but the intent is clear: Israel is to be a light shining in the dark regions of the world.

Through the prophets, men were to consider the love, justice and brotherhood that God desired. A preoccupation with space ships, orbiting prophets, and divine satellites has nothing to do with the central theme of the Bible—God's relationship with man.

In fact, this pseudo-science, pseudo-religion is so soaked with fraud, promotion and personal gain that it should be condemned wherever it appears. The theological discussions of saucerists are crude and irrelevant. Here, again, the flurry has brought the fringe to the top.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Ear Wax Removable; Loss Of Hearing Temporary

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — It feels as though something is crawling in my right ear. What could this be?

A — Insects do at times gain access to the ear canal but your ear wax tends to discourage them. When this is not the cause, the sensation you describe is closely related to itching and may be due to a wide variety of causes including seborrheic dermatitis, eczema and ringworm. In some persons the cause is excessive earwax.

Q — I have a staphylococcus aureus infection in my ear. I have seen seven doctors but they have not cured it. What do you advise?

A — You do not say whether this infection is in your middle ear or the external canal. Most staphylococcal infections can be cured with penicillin. If the infection is chronic the germs have undoubtedly become resistant to penicillin and an antibiotic to which they are sensitive must be found.

Q — Is it harmful to put water or peroxide in your ears? Could this cause water on the brain in time?

A — If there is no perforation of your ear drum, water in your ear will do no harm, but in most persons it causes an unpleasant sensation. It will not cause water on the brain. Peroxide is often placed in the ear to soften a plug of earwax.

Q — Could too much earwax affect one's hearing? Could diet reduce the production of wax?

A — When the wax hardens and plugs the external canal the victim becomes hard of hearing but his normal hearing is restored at once when the plug is washed out. I know of no way to cut down the production of earwax.

Opening lead—♥ 9

On some occasions it should be easy to see that a squeeze may be developing and to find a lead to break it up.

South won the heart opening in his own hand and led his three of spades. Dummy's jack lost to East's ace and East made the safe (?) lead of a heart. South proceeded to run off five club tricks. He discarded the six of spades and queen of diamonds from dummy.

West was one of those players who might be described as poor but honest. His first discard was the nine of diamonds; his second the three of diamonds and his third the four of diamonds. All these presented no problem but when South led a heart to dummy West had to make a fourth discard. This turned out to be sheer torture but eventually he played his eight of diamonds like a man losing his last tooth.

South noted all this. He cashed dummy's two high spades; led the seven of diamonds, rose with his ace and made his slam.

East was indignant with West. "Couldn't you have played your diamonds in the order 3-4-8-9 and without showing any worry? In that case declarer would probably have finessed and gone down two."

East's criticism was justified but if we were looking for a culprit we would have to choose East. When East was in with the ace of spades he should have seen that the only way to set the slam would be if West held the king of diamonds and a spade stopper and East should have led a diamond and broken up the squeeze before it had a chance to develop.

Johnson Still Cool To Bobby

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Never a nasty word between them. They're playing it cool. But the relationship between President Johnson and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy looks cool enough to be freezing.

The New York Democrat has been careful not to make any frontal assaults on Johnson and has even praised him, perhaps to pacify the President in case he thought Kennedy was out to get his job.

But to Johnson, always sensitive to criticism, having Kennedy around must be like being nudged by a hot poker. The senator has been generous with his criticism of the Johnson administration and with advice, too.

In 1965, less than a year after going to the Senate but while his fans were thinking of him as a candidate for something in presidential 1968, Kennedy went out of his way to brush off the idea.

First, and he repeated it, he said he had no intention of running for the vice presidency in 1968 (Johnson had banned him from that berth in the 1964 elections), only expected to seek re-election to the Senate in 1970, and had no plans to seek the presidency in 1972.

Later he said he would support Johnson for re-election in 1968, adding: "I have great admiration for what the President has done here in the United States and in our relationships with countries overseas ...

"I have great respect for him and I think we agree on by far the larger percentage of major issues ... he has been an outstanding President ... and I look forward to campaigning for him in 1968."

But while Johnson has gone to great pains to get the South Vietnamese to hold elections Sept. 3, Kennedy recently said those elections looked like a fraud to him.

Over a year ago Kennedy said he favored elections in Vietnam but suggested international observers should be there to see what happens. Kennedy wasn't the only recent critic on the elections. Now Johnson is sending observers.

Critics, and Kennedy was one of them, jumped all over Johnson for sending U.S. troops into the Dominican Republic in 1965 when the President said he feared Communists might try to take over.

Kennedy said he thought such a move would damage relations with the rest of Latin America. Later he said the Dominican elections which this country sponsored "rectified the damage."

Kennedy has been a constant critic of Johnson's handling of the war in Vietnam, and a constant adviser.

He said in 1965 Johnson should consult with Congress before sending any more troops there; urged the cease-fire at Christmastime that year be extended (Johnson extended it for a month afterward); was critical of the "escalation" of the war; called for a halt in the bombing coupled with peace negotiations within a week (this was disregarded); and thought the Viet Cong should take part in the peace talks (the administration has never agreed to that yet).

Last year Kennedy complained the administration proposal to cut funds for domestic programs made him wonder if the nation had learned anything from the Negro riots. By way of comment on that the White House said Johnson was doing all he could within the limits of "realism."

And Kennedy has made a number of proposals: that the United States develop an Asian policy "based on the reality and diversity of today's Asia"; that the United States drop its opposition to the admission of Red China to the United Nations, on the condition that Nationalist China be allowed to keep its seat there; that this country double its foreign aid to developing nations over the next few years; that there should be a massive rebuilding program in the nation's slums, complaining that more has not been done.

After all this Johnson probably doesn't feel that Kennedy, who gets great glee from shooting fast water in a raft, has done much to make him feel gleeful.

Not on Behavior

Congressmen are human, and some of them lose their tempers, get drunk and curse just like other people, but it does not help their reputations when their behavior gets into print. Sometimes they break the law and have to pay damages and even go to jail.

Recently, according to a police report, a congressman slammed his car into the rear of another car which had stopped for a red light. The struck auto was hurled about 100 feet forward and sustained about $500 worth of damages. Two Army men in that car received whiplash injuries; but they refused medical treatment. The congressman's car was damaged to the extent of $100.

The accident occurred at 2:45 a.m. The congressman tried to convince the police that he was a congressman and should not be held, but the police officer stuck to his guns and put the elected representative in jail. The congressman said he wasn't really arrested but just waited five hours for the judge to come down. When the judge arrived at 9 a.m. the congressman was charged with reckless driving and his trial was set for August 22nd.

The police officer should be commended for upholding the law. The Special Justice said, "He claimed he was a congressman, but he did not act or sound like one. You get them claiming they are White House aides, too."

It is refreshing to know that the police and the court officers respect the law even if a congressman sometimes does not.

Lesson Of Oil Lamp

A wick in time might have saved Britain nine bombing runs, or whatever the number that was carried out in the attempt to burn off the oil that poured out of the Torrey Canyon wreck and onto the beaches of Cornwall.

Trying to ignite an oil slick with explosives or napalm is like trying to light an oil lamp with a firecracker. Scientists are now taking a lesson from our electricityless ancestors, who knew better than that. They simply used a wick.

With oil pollution of the seas becoming a growing problem, Kenneth Hickman of the Rochester Institute of Technology suggests in a letter to Science magazine that experiments be made dropping cotton wads or kerosene-dampened asbestos ropes on oil slicks. Repeated tests would determine the best size and composition of such wick-bundles and the best way of lighting them.

Another remedy, he thinks, would be to equip empty tankers with suction devices to "vacuum clean" the oceans. The fuel would be funneled into tanks and the water jettisoned. This would not only perform a much-needed service but bring rich rewards to the salvage vessel.

SCARRED, BROKEN HILLSIDE surrounded by jungle is the scene for these infantrymen of the Army's Fourth Division, who rest on their bunker at a forward firebase west of Pleiku, South Vietnam.

Over Two Years

Johnson Has Approved Selection of Targets

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon disclosed that American planes have bombed more than 225 key military targets in sensitive areas of North Vietnam during the 2½-year air campaign.

Many of these have been authorized personally by President Johnson, acting on recommendations from the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The President, it is understood, has approved the great bulk of more than 300-plus targets sent by the military leaders for his okay.

The Joint Chiefs laid out these targets for the President's consideration because they were situated in populated zones where civilian casualties might be heavy, near Red China's border where dangerous overflights might occur, or in major ports where Soviet ships might be damaged.

North Vietnam reportedly has some 18,000 potential targets.

Of these, 5,000 are said to be worth hitting and the great majority have been struck at the time and choosing of Adm. U.S. Grant Sharpe, Pacific commander-in-chief.

The White House came under severe criticism in recent weeks, particularly from House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, for what was said to be overly tight restrictions on the bombing.

In the past month the administration has expanded the approved target list to allow strikes within 10 miles of China's border and has given military leaders greater leeway in bombing in and around the capital city of Hanoi.

Defense officials insisted last week the loosening up in bombing was a logical evolution of the air campaign and not a result of Ford's criticism.

In response to questions, the Pentagon provided a breakdown of the types of key targets which have been attacked by Air Force, Navy and Marine aircraft since the bombing began in February 1965. These include:

—More than 50 barracks, more than 50 bridges and more than 50 surface-to-air missile sites.

—More than 20 supply depots.
—More than 15 Army depots.
—More than 10 petroleum, oil and lubricants storage sites, more than 10 power plants and more than 10 ferries.

—More than five maritime ports and more than five air fields.

In addition, the Pentagon said, there have been numbers of raids against railroad yards and shops, munitions plants, iron and steel factories, cement plants, naval bases, communications installations and radar sites.

Because of North Vietnam's ability to snap back with quick repairs or replacements, most targets require continual assaults.

To date North Vietnam, with more than 7,000 anti-aircraft guns and missiles, has brought down more than 650 American war planes worth more than $1 billion.

Despite the cost, top military officers have paraded before Congress in recent days to attest to the value of the bombing campaign.

At the Pentagon, however, an officer who declined to permit use of his name, compared the target list with the aircraft loss and declared: "It's a national disgrace, what we're paying to hit those things."

There are some notable targets recommended by the Joint Chiefs which the President has refused to authorize for bombing.

Docking facilities at three major port areas—Haiphong, Cam Pha and Hon Gai—currently are immune to attack because Soviet or Chinese charter ships often are loading or unloading there.

U.S. planes have kept away from Gia Lam and Phuc Yen, major air fields near Hanoi, and Cat Bi, outside Haiphong.

One of the dozen major power plants also remains untouched. This is at Lao Cai, 175 miles northwest of Hanoi near the Chinese border.

Peking, London Strained

LONDON (AP) — Diplomatic relations between Britain and Red China have degenerated into a series of mutual stone-walling sessions, with the two governments waging a war of nerves over their most immediate mutual interest—the future of Hong Kong.

The two envoys bearing the brunt of this are Britain's charge d'affaires in Peking, Donald C. Hopson, and Shen Ping, the Chinese charge in London.

Hopson and three members of his staff were reported beaten by a mob which burned out the British Mission's building in Peking Tuesday night. The British government immediately placed restrictions on Shen and his staff and told them they could not leave Britain without special permission.

Britain recognized the Peking government shortly after Communist forces conquered the Chinese mainland in 1949. British officials have long argued that some link with mainland China is better than none.

They see no reason to reverse that view even with the current state of almost no meaningful communication. China, has spiced its notes with such terms as "Fascist dogs" for the British, and the British have refused to accept the notes.

Officials admit, "There is little else we can do with the situation in China as it now is." Their main fear is that Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution will get out of control and roll over Hong Kong.

Red organizers in the crown colony, apparently dismayed by lack of support for strikes and demonstrations earlier this summer, have turned to terrorism in their effort to force the colonial government to knuckle under as the Portuguese government of Macao did earlier.

In the face of such troubles the British policy has been to maintain the traditional stiff upper lip.

The diplomat who has been maintaining it in Peking, despite demonstrations outside the British Mission and repeated middle-of-the-night summons as to the Chinese Foreign Ministry, is one of the most decorated men in the British foreign service.

Hopson, who has been in Peking for two years, won the Distinguished Service Order and Military Cross for bravery in World War II.

The 51-year-old diplomat has served in other tough posts, notably in Budapest and Laos. One colleague describes him as "the perfect example of the unflappable British Guards officer."

Shen Ping is equally unflappable, but in an inscrutable Oriental manner. More than once when summoned to the British Foreign Office he has begun to read notes that Hopson had already rejected in Peking.

A dollar bill has an average life expectancy of 18 months in circulation.

Anzio Is No Longer Beseiged

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
ROME (AP) — Notes from Hollywood-on-the-Tiber—

"They're fighting the battle of Anzio again, but not where it happened. 'We wanted to shoot the picture at the historic sites,' says Edward Dmytryk, who is directing the high-budget Columbia-De Laurentiis 'Anzio.' 'But we found out that is impossible. Anzio is now a prosperous beach resort with TV aerials all over.'"

"Anzio was one of the most controversial battles of World War II, since the invading Allies became mired in a costly holding position although they were apparently able to press forward. 'But the picture will take no sides on the military controversy,' said Dmytryk. 'It is the story of eight survivors of a Ranger outfit that was virtually annihilated by the Germans.'"

"Anzio" stars Robert Mitchum, whose first big break with a film about the Italian campaign, "The Story of G.I. Joe." He has continued fighting the war in Normandy ("The Longest Day"), in the Pacific ("Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison") and on other fronts.

Asked how he was enjoying his current film, the actor replied: Mitchum's remarks could not pass the censor. Italian film workers are seeking an end to the six-day work week, but industry insiders doubt it will be granted. They fear that the increased cost of a five-day week would drive producers to other countries or out-of-the-studio locations. Hollywood has had the five-day production week for a decade.

The eminent English performer, Robert Stephens, brought his bride Maggie Smith and their baby here while he is enacting the Prince of Verona in Franco Zeffirelli's "Romeo and Juliet." Stephens is on vacation from the National Theater, to which he will return for a production of "As You Like It," with an all-male cast, as it was done in Elizabethan times.

"It would make sense if we had enough boys to play the girls' roles, which is how they did it in Shakespeare's day," said Stephens. "But there aren't enough boys in the company, and the girls will be played by 26-year-old men. The whole enterprise is fraught with dangers."

Because of the change-of-identity plot, the coming production will offer the absurdity of men masquerading as women masquerading as men.

Gore Vidal has returned to his Roman residence to rest up after his criticism in speeches and writings against President Johnson and the Kennedys and to work on another novel—"pornographic this time."

Cheer Players

Fans Side With Team In Feud With Finley

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The cellar-dwelling A's returned to Kansas City Thursday to be greeted by nearly 1,000 cheering fans at Municipal Airport, seemingly oblivious to the fact their team is 17 games removed from the American League pennant race.

But, it was obvious the fans were only choosing sides in the feud that has erupted between A's owner Charles O. Finley and the players. A feud that apparently broke open with the suspension and fine of pitcher Lew Krausse by Finley following an alleged incident aboard a commercial airliner.

The players protested and expressed general unhappiness with Finley for what they regarded as interference with Manager Al Dark's field direction. Dark was fired and the hostility between the players and Finley became full-blown.

The A's leading hitter, first baseman Ken Harrelson, was given his unconditional release and finally, the players called on baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert to step into the squabble.

Eckert announced in New York Thursday that he is investigating the controversy and "will take further appropriate action at a later date."

Kansas City fans, frustrated by Finley's attempts to move the club elsewhere in years past and his renewed efforts in that direction this season, greeted the players with cheers Thursday. Many carried signs protesting Finley's actions and the owner was hung in effigy at least twice.

The A's return to action tonight under interim manager Luke Appling in a series with Detroit. There was no immediate indication of whether the fans would turn up at the stadium to continue their support of the players and protest of Finley. Chuck Dobson will start for Kansas City and John Hiller for the Tigers.

Meanwhile, fans of the St. Louis Cardinals find it almost unbelievable that their team has built what appears to be an insurmountable lead in the National League pennant chase.

In fact, it's no longer a race or a chase except for second place. The Cards lead runner-up Cincinnati by 1 1/2 games following a 2-0 shutout of San Francisco Thursday night and a 4-3, ten inning loss by the Reds to the Dodgers.

Only two and one-half games separate Cincinnati, Chicago, Atlanta, San Francisco and Philadelphia.

Thursday night was typical: The Cards Dick Hughes and the Giants Gaylor Perry almost matched pitch for pitch through eight scoreless innings. Perry limited the Cards to two hits, but was in occasional trouble because of seven walks.

Tryouts For Soccer Are Slated

The call for young Sedalia soccer players will sound throughout the city this Saturday when the Khoury Soccer League starts its program of activity with tryouts on the soccer field north of Liberty Park.

The tryouts are slated for 10 a.m. for youngsters between the ages of six and 13. Robert Hausam, president of the league, said those boys who did not play on a soccer team here last year will be given places on teams during the tryouts. He said that approximately 300 boys who saw action in the league last year will return this season and have already been placed on a team.

The Khoury League has programmed 29 teams in five classes for this year with about 18 boys to a team. There will be four Atom B's teams ranging in age from six to eight, six Atom A's teams with eight with soccer experience and nine years olds. The Bantams range from 10-11; Midgets from 12-13. The Juniors and Juvenile age group will have their tryouts next Wednesday evening at 5:30 p.m. at Liberty Park soccer field. The Juvenile class ranges from 14-15 and Juniors 16 thru 18 years old.

Each team is scheduled to play two games a week with the night games at Centennial Park on the men's softball diamond or Babe Ruth baseball diamond, Monday through Thursday and day games on Saturday and Sunday.

Hausam said, "We are short four managers and if anyone is interested in working with boys" they should call him.

Any boys desiring information or who cannot make the tryout Saturday should call Paul Klover TA 6-7973 or Hausam TA 6-5038.

Stanky Is Firm On Closed Door

Bill Utz Favored In Sprints

Three Sedalia race drivers tonight will seek to break an apparent jinx that for 14 years has barred Queen City drivers from the winner's circle of the state modified stock car championships highlighting the second week end of the state fair.

And, to heighten the irony, one of the drivers who learned his trade in the area which has Sedalia as its focal point, has gone on to become one of the sport's stand-out performers—but in sprint cars, not the supermodifieds.

Bill Utz, winner of the last two sprint car features held on state fairgrounds racetrack, is joined by Marvin Gibson and Don Cooper, two other veterans for whom the coveted crown has been elusive in the past.

Sedalia will have still another stake in the race.

The car owned and built by Wally and Chick McCown, local wrecking yard operators, will be campaigned in quest of its third straight win in the classic by Jim Jenkins of Gilliam.

The McCown brothers' car won in 1965 and 1966 with the late Ken Taylor of Slater at the wheel. This year's race, styled the Ken Taylor Memorial, honors the memory of the four-time state champion who lost his life in a racing crash at Marshall just two days after winning here last year.

Prize money for tonight's races totals $4,000, with $1,000 for the winner, but it's possible the prestige would hold equal importance, at least for the Sedalia entrants.

The complete starting lineup, starting with the pole position and working back, includes Bob Williams, Kansas City; Junior Dietzel, Jefferson City; Gene Genetten, Kansas City; Freddy Hohman, California; Ray Lee Goodwin, Kansas City; Tom Mikels, Moberly; Ed Levitt, Kansas City; Gibson; Jim Leighty, Carrollton; Utz; Jenkins; Sam Austin, Kansas City; Ken Harper, Carrollton; Russell Hibbard, Slater; Cliff Lilly, Kansas City; Dave Ferguson, Odessa; Cooper; Erv Schick, Kansas City; Tom Corbin, Carrollton; Roy Hibbard, Marshall; Bob Ford, Marshall; Wes Ferrand, Kansas City; George Lasoski, Dover, and Jim Harmon and Stan Borofsky, both of Kansas City.

Russell Hibbard and Harper are the only two former champions in the lineup. Hibbard won in 1963 and Harper won the following year.

Three races for "class B" cars will precede the 50-lap feature. Beginning at 7:30 p.m., there will be two 15-car heats, with the top 10 from each heat racing again in a "B" car finale.

Past champions of Missouri State modified stock car racing are:

1954—Jud Larson, Kansas City+; 1955—Torch Aleshire, Moberly; 1956—Torch Aleshire, Moberly; 1957—Torch Aleshire, Moberly.

1958—Ken Taylor, Slater+; and 1959—Ken Taylor, Slater.

1960—Junior Hower, Kansas City; 1961—Walter Sorrels, Columbia; 1962—Junior Hower, Kansas City; 1963—Russell Hibbard, Slater; 1964—Ken Harper, Carrollton; 1965—Ken Taylor, Slater+ and 1966—Ken Taylor, Slater+ + Deceased.

Track records for various distances for supermodifieds in State Fair races are as follows: 5-laps—Bill Utz, Sedalia, Chevrolet, 2:08.69, 8-22-64; 7-laps—Roy Hibbard, Marshall, Chevrolet, 3:14.91, 8-18-62; 10 laps—Jack Belk, Joplin, Pontiac, 4:15.32, 8-22-64; 25 laps—Lucky Niemeyer, Kansas City, Ford, 12:09.41, 8-20-60; 50 laps—Junior Hower, Kansas City, Chevrolet, 22:50.94, 8-24-62.

can get along without Bill Monbouquette, too.

The Chicago White Sox manager held forth at great length after his club was blanked on five hits by Monbouquette Thursday and lost to the New York Yankees 5-0. The defeat dropped the Sox into a virtual tie with Boston for the American League lead.

Earlier this month, Stanky barred the clubhouse door in Bloomington, Minn., after a game with the Twins, thereby unwittingly keeping out the vice president, who, though a Twins' fan, wanted to pay his respects. Stanky sent a telegram of apology, but when asked about the incident Thursday, said, "Humphrey can't hit. What do I want with him?"

The White Sox couldn't do much hitting either against Monbouquette, who, after being released by Detroit in May, spent three weeks frustratingly trying to catch on with every major league team before the Yankees took a chance that has been paying off handsomely ever since.

Monbouquette has pitched well in relief, but in making his first start against Chicago, he was superb. The league leaders managed only five hits and only one of them went out of the infield.

In other American League games, the Red Sox beat Washington 7-5, Minnesota took Detroit 4-2 and Cleveland edged California 2-1. Baltimore and Kansas City were not scheduled.

Water Conditions Good For Fishing

JEFFERSON CITY AP — The Conservation Commission reported today that water conditions are generally good over Missouri and fishing success has picked up and is rated as fair to good.

Individual stream conditions: Grand-Clear and low; channels fair on trotlines.

Three Beat Tony SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Before the 1967 U. S. Open began, Tony Manero, 1936 winner at Baltusrol where this year's event was played, felt certain his 282 score of 31 years ago would hold up.

It didn't.

Jack Nicklaus not only broke Manero's best for the four previous Opens played here but he shattered Ben Hogan's record 276 set in 1948 at Los Angeles. Also breaking 282 were Arnie Palmer with 279 and Don January with 281.

On Greater Safety

Stott Takes Issue With Some Standards

Ramo Stott, who will wheel a 1967 Plymouth in a pair of late model stock car racing events at the State Fairgrounds today, questions the advisability of current federal standards being imposed upon automotive manufacturers in the presumed greater safety.

"Some of them are good, sure," declared the favorite in this afternoon's 100-mile Missouri International; "but the benefit from others is questionable—and they do impose a financial burden on car manufacturers."

Stott noted that not only Chrysler, whose products he has raced for many years, but also General Motors, Ford and American Motors have protested various of the government regulations.

"The standards they have imposed are often unnecessary, and they have forced price increases which are making it tough on people who would like to buy a new car," Stott observed.

He concurred in an American Motors protest regarding a fraction of an inch discrepancy in the height of parking lights from the ground. An AM official had pleaded that the cost of retooling to raise the lights would be prohibitive in comparison to the improvement—if any—in the product.

"All of these changes just jack up the price of a car and add more to the inflationary spiral that's already going on. Changes like dual braking systems are all right, but some of that stuff—like the parking lights—is unnecessary," the Keokuk, Iowa, IMCA championship contender observed.

Stott, along with Ernie Derr, also of Keokuk and driving a 1967 Dodge Charger, will face a challenge from more than 30 other late model pilots in the 100-mile classic, for which qualifying trials get under way at 1 p.m. The same cars will race again at 7 p.m., this time on the half-mile under lights, in a six race program capped by a 25-lap feature.

Stott has won the International three times, Derr once. No other driver entered here today has ever been in the International's winner's circle.

Here are the previous winners:

1955—H. G. (Shorty) Eberts, Avondale, Mo., 1955 Ford., 1956—Don White, Keokuk, Iowa, 1956 Dodge., 1957—Bob Burdick, Omaha, Neb., 1957 Ford., 1958—Loyal Katskee, Omaha, Neb., 4.4 liter Ferrari., 1959—Ernie Derr, Keokuk, Iowa, 1959 Pontiac., 1960—Ramo Stott, Keokuk, Iowa, 1960 Ford convertible., 1961—Paul Burrows, Sycamore, Ill., 1961 Ford., 1962—Dick Hutcherson, Keokuk, Iowa, 1962 Ford., 1963—Dick Hutcherson, Keokuk, Iowa, 1963 Ford., 1964—Dick Hutcherson, Keokuk, Iowa, 1964 Ford., 1965—Ramo Stott, Keokuk, Iowa, 1965 Plymouth., 1966—Ramo Stott, Keokuk, Iowa, 1966 Plymouth.

Track records are :40.31 for one lap, set by Stott in 1965, and one hour, 11 minutes, 27.98 seconds, set by Hutcherson in 1962. Both are world standards.

Housecleaning Safety Tips

As you clean cupboards and drawers, keep alert to the many ways you can eliminate hazards to you and your family. Knives, scissors, and other sharp objects should be kept in holders or some secure place. Store matches in a tightly closed metal container. Examine small electrical appliances for frayed wires and loose connections. Rearrange high shelves to hold only items used infrequently.

Keep your children in mind as you work. Anything a child can swallow is potentially dangerous. Always replace covers tightly on containers. Many common household products, including cleaning compounds and bleaches, are high on the list of causes of poisoning according to the national Safety Council. Don't keep household detergents and cleaners under the kitchen sink unless the cabinet is locked when youngsters are around. In one study 37 per cent of poisoning cases involved crawling youngsters, so arrange storage areas out of their reach.

One should always remember to read labels carefully including the small print. Many household products can be dangerous to children, or they are packaged in such a way that a hazard may be created through possible misuse. Most of these products have cautions printed on the label—some of these statements are required by law, others are simply provided by the manufacturer. This great effort to help homemakers, however, will be wasted on women who do not use common sense in storing and handling packages.

Be sure you cannot mistake the contents of a canister or storage container when you fill it for future use. As little as a tablespoon of salt could kill a baby warns the American Academy of Pediatrics. So don't keep this staple where it can be mistaken for a formula ingredient.

Nearly 3500 toddlers are poisoned every year from eating or drinking a variety of substances. Drugs, of course, are particularly dangerous. Some manufacturers have recently fitted their packages with safety caps that are not likely to be removed by children. But this is not the entire answer to safety. Think what might happen if the youngster got his hands on razor blades, permanent wave lotions, and other supplies. This storage area should be locked if there are youngsters in the family.

For the safety of your family, discard all prescriptions not being used. Throw away anything that is old, stale, or outdated. Never transfer supplies into unmarked containers in order to save space. Every jar, bottle, and box should be clearly labeled.

And again let me say, be sure the medicine cabinet is either locked or out of the reach of the child and remember, children can climb almost anywhere.

The Coffee Story

Where Is It Grown? Coffee grows best in tropical regions.

Brazil is the largest producing country in the world. Almost 90 per cent of the world's supply comes from Brazil and Columbia! Blends vary in different countries, in different regions or part of the country. Each coffee is identified by the country in which it is grown, and by the district within the country, or by ports through which it is shipped.

What Determines Quality? It is the blending process that achieves the particular flavor, aroma, color and body for which different brands are known. The highly specialized job is done by the "coffee tester"! Quality depends much on the knowledge and ability of the tester. Quality characteristics of coffee change from year to year and from area to area. Often related to the water supply in the area rather than to the coffee itself. The mineral content in the water varies and has a great deal to do with the "depth" and richness of flavor of the coffee. The oily film which appears on the top of a cup of freshly brewed coffee usually comes from over-roasting of the coffee.

How Is Quality Retained? Once the roasted coffee bean is broken, the aroma, body, flavor and strength evaporate when exposed to air. It is highly absorbent — ground coffee quickly picks up alien flavors and aromas.

Buy an amount which can be used in a short time.

Keep a can open only long enough to spoon coffee into a pot which is ready to brew.

If coffee is transferred to a different container for storing, clean that container with dry baking soda before refilling. Old coffee becomes stale and rancid and affects the flavor of the fresh coffee.

Kinds Of Coffee

Instant Coffee. By 1974, 40-50 per cent of the coffee market is expected to be instant coffee. Instant coffee is the biggest bargain in convenience foods. Out of over $100 spent on coffee, $1 would go for instant coffee, which the same number of servings of regular coffee would cost $1.96, or almost double!

Decaffeinated Coffee. Not know how coffee is decaffeinated! The secret is decaffeinated! The secret of decaffeination is the property of the European scientist who developed the process. So, a company who wishes to sell decaffeinated coffee must ship it to Europe and pay to have it decaffeinated, before it is sent back here for blending, roasting and packaging. Two decaffeinated plants have been built in America under his supervision—on a royalty basis.

Chicory Coffee. Chicory is a coffee addition, prepared from a turnip-like root which is dried, roasted ground and then resembles coffee in appearance. It is often used in our Southern states to give a sweetish-bitter flavor to the coffee.

Tips On Good Coffee

Keep your coffeemaker immaculate. Coffee oils cling, affecting the flavor of the coffee. Use a good detergent and rinse the pot thoroughly. A bottle brush is helpful to use.

Use fresh coffee and store it, tightly covered, in a cool dry

GIANT BOILING POT sends clouds of steam, ash and cinders 1,000 feet into the sky in the North Atlantic southeast of Reykjavik, Iceland, as a new volcanic vent in the ocean floor spews hot lava. The lava appears to be forming a new island, just as the island of Surtsey, seen in the background, was formed in November of 1963.

China Advocates Black Rebellion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist China has used an American advocate of black rebellion—and the U.S. mails—to try to fan racial strife in U.S. cities and turn Negroes against whites in Vietnam.

From Peking, Negro exile Robert F. Williams has mailed into Negro districts a propaganda leaflet containing tips on arson and destruction, and advising Negro GIs to "eliminate" their white comrades in Vietnam.

"The enemy land is America and America is the black man's 'battleground,'" wrote Williams in the latest available edition of his publication "Crusader."

place to preserve aroma and flavor.

For rich, full-bodied coffee, use 2 level tablespoons ground coffee for each 3/4 measuring cup (6 ounces) water. Keep a special measuring cup handy for this. You can vary these proportions, use them every time.

For best flavor, always start with freshly drawn cold water. Never use hot water or water that has been standing in a teakettle or pan.

Brew at least three-fourths of the coffee pot's full capacity for best flavor.

Keep coffee hot over very low heat — never allow it to boil.

able to return home and intensify the brutalization and extermination of black people to the extent that they are currently exterminating the Vietnamese people."

Postal, customs and Justice Department officials say their authority to police incoming propaganda has been sharply restricted in recent years by Supreme Court decisions on freedom of expression.

A post office source said the postal jurisdiction begins after material has been cleared by customs. A customs spokesman said such material is barred at the ports of entry only if it is treasonable or advocates overthrow of the government or assassination of the President.

Because of legal restrictions, the officials said, they are unable to determine the extent of Crusader's circulation. One official said, however, "a hell of a lot of them come in."

A Detroit detective said he purchased copies of the Crusader in a bookstore in the heart of the area torn by rioting last month.

The 42-year-old Williams, one of the first of the Negro Militants, fled to Cuba six years ago allegedly to avoid a charge of kidnapping during a racial disturbance in his hometown of Monroe, N.C.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: When does "minding one's own business" cease to be a virtue and begin to be an act of cowardice?

This morning I heard a youngster crying in front of my house. I looked out to see a little neighbor child surrounded by four jeering children. The boy was wearing a diaper over his trousers and had a cardboard sign around his neck which read, "I am seven years old and I still wet my bed."

I was furious and went outside and began to remove the sign and the diaper. My husband stopped me and said, "It is none of your business."

I know the child's mother. She is a divorcee and as nutty as a fruitcake. Her oldest boy plays centerfield with his thumb in his mouth. A middle child, a girl, has a nervous eye tick and stutters. Now this little fellow is being tortured because he wets the bed.

Should I try to help these kids by talking to them? Or should I plead with the deranged mother to get some help for herself and her children? — NO NAME PLEASE

Dear N.N.P.: Pleading with deranged people is useless. Your best bet is to have a talk with the teachers in whose classes these unfortunate children will be next fall. Surely they will recognize evidence of a tragic home life. Your information and interest should encourage the teachers to investigate and see that the appropriate steps are taken to save these kids.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter wants to go steady. I see nothing wrong with it since the boy is a very nice lad and comes from a good family.

My husband is against it. He says it is ridiculous to allow a 13-year-old girl to accept a boy's friendship ring and go only with him. I understand from friends that going steady does not mean what it did in our day. They claim it is the "in" thing and that most kids outgrow it.

We have been having some fairly heated discussions on this subject since my husband and I are divided. The line-up is now two against two. Our 17-year-old son sides with his father. What do you say? — PARK RIDGE

Dear Park: I just tipped the balance. It's 3 to 2, and I'm with your husband and your son. Not only am I against 13-year-olds going steady, I am against 13-year-olds going. Period.

What's your big hurry to get this little chick grown up? I don't know what your friends mean when they say going steady doesn't mean what it did in our day. The basic idea is the same—"everybody else, hands off." This is a poor approach even for 16-and 17-year-olds. If you came to me for support, Madame, you rattled the wrong cage.

Confidential to Hate The Stuff: Leave it alone, Stupid. Of course he wants you to drink with him. What does he have to lose? He's already a drunk. Furthermore, booze is one of the best known devices to break down a girl's resistance.

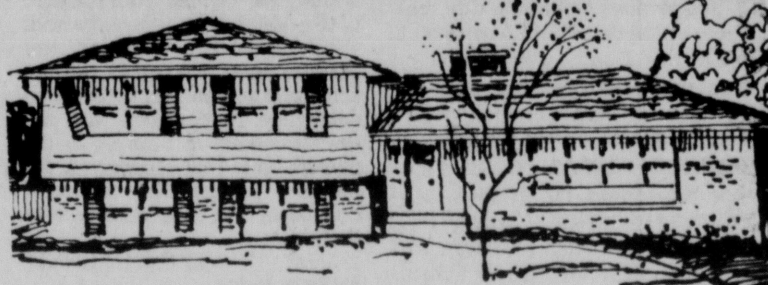

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

12 Jets Lost In Battle

US Losses May Reach New High

SAIGON, (AP)—De-struction of a dozen U.S. jets over North Vietnam in three days suggests that, while the intensified drive claims heavy toll on enemy supply lines, the plane losses may reach a record this week.

The North Vietnamese downed 65 planes in one week last August, the high in an air war that is now in its 30th month.

Six of the fighter-bombers, which cost about $2 million each, were lost in raids Monday that centered largely from the Hanoi area to Red China's frontier. Six more went down in strikes Wednesday. Of the 21 fliers manning these planes, three were rescued. The others are listed as missing or captured.

The U.S. Command announced two MIGs were shot down by one pilot, 1st Lt. David B. Waldrop, 25, of Nashville, Tenn., during a series of dog-fights Wednesday while missiles from similar Soviet-designed fighters felled two of the American planes, F4 Phantoms.

That brought the dogfighting score to 84 confirmed North Vietnamese and 22 American planes downed since the first aerial encounter in April 1965. Announced American plane losses over the North from all causes climbed to 659.

The Communists threw everything in their book—jet interceptors, missiles and withering barrages of antiaircraft shells—into the sky in an effort to stem the 122 missions Wednesday.

Returning pilots reported spectacular destruction in the railway yards around Hanoi, choked with rolling stock immobilized by the cutting of nearby bridges.

The usual sharp, isolated clashes marked ground operations in South Vietnam. The U.S. Command said action remained generally light.

Adding heavy tonnage to the ordnance dropped by tactical air squadrons, U.S. Strategic Air Command B52s carried out four raids in the 24-hour period up to Thursday afternoon. They hit at Communist targets from east of Saigon and through the central highlands to the northern 1st Corps area.

N. Vietnamese gunners opened up early Thursday on a brigade command post of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division near Pleiku, in the highlands 220 miles north of Saigon.

They fired about 50 rounds of what were believed to be 122mm rockets, but only seven landed inside the post's perimeter and no casualties were reported.

Crash Victim Dies of Injuries

NEOSHO, Mo. (AP)—Earl LeRoy Collins, 73, of Wichita, Kan., died Wednesday of injuries received in a 2-car accident at the junction of U.S. 60 and Missouri 86.

Officers said he died about two hours after the accident, which injured four other persons in the Collins car.

Hospitalized were Mrs. Margaret Collins; and Mrs. Edith Hunt, 60; her mother, Mrs. Grace Boatright, 78, and her daughter, Gracie, 17, all of Boone, Iowa.

Office Opened

GAZA (AP)—The Israeli military government opened a registration office for the city's unemployed and said that within hours 200 signed up for jobs. It said similar offices are to be opened elsewhere in the Gaza area.

The Weather

At Geneva

Draft Treaty Jointly Submitted By Powers

GENEVA (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union jointly submitted Thursday a draft treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons. But left blank was the key article on enforcement that has been a sticking point for years.

Even though much hard bargaining lies ahead, U.S. disarmament negotiator William C. Foster told a news conference it was "a reasonable hope" that the treaty would be signed early next year.

Foster and Soviet negotiator Alexei A. Roshchin placed before the 17-nation disarmament conference identical texts for further negotiation here and at the forthcoming U.N. General Assembly in New York.

President Johnson, in a message to the conference, said the treaty would demonstrate man's ability to "design his fate rather than be engulfed by it" and would be a great gift to succeeding generations.

The President said he has instructed Foster to negotiate further with "determination to ensure that a fair and effective treaty is concluded."

The draft banned any signatory nation from passing on nuclear weapons or weapons know-how, and required non-nuclear nations to undertake not to manufacture or acquire nuclear weapons.

Article 3 of the treaty, which is to contain the control and inspection procedures, was left blank largely because of disagreement over the role of the International Atomic Energy Agency—IAEA.

The United States and the Soviet Union agreed in principle that IAEA should eventually have responsibility for ensuring that nuclear materials are not misused for weapons purposes by any nation which does not now possess them.

West Germany and some other European Common Market nations object to IAEA controls and are still seeking a form of inspection through the European Atomic Energy Organization, their own agency.

West Germany fears that IAEA controls could result in commercial espionage if Communist inspectors passed back to their government details of the latest German reactors.

The Russians, always suspicious of Germany's nuclear ambitions, refuse to accept the European agency inspection idea. Roshchin reiterated the refusal at the day's brief meeting of the conference.

The Soviet acceptance of the joint draft before agreement on Article 3 nonetheless represented a major East-West compromise in the five-year-old negotiations.

France and Red China are not represented at Geneva. Informants said neither the United States nor the Soviet Union had much hope that Peking would adhere to the treaty now, but both felt this would not obstruct the main purpose of the treaty.

France is expected to sign the treaty in due course and thereby obtain formal international recognition of its own nuclear power status, informants added.

Grain Futures Decline Under Liquidation

CHICAGO (AP)—A growing reluctance by farmers to market old-crop soybeans at the current depressed price influenced an advance of up to nearly 4 cents a bushel in this commodity on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday.

After the advance has been established, prices receded a little, but soybeans still posted one of the best forward movements in recent weeks. The advance, however, was restricted solely to the nearby September contract, although the new-crop deliveries also showed some strength.

Grain futures, however, declined under liquidation.

At the close, wheat was $\frac{3}{4}$ to $1\frac{1}{2}$ cents a bushel lower, September 1.47 $\frac{3}{4}$ — $\frac{1}{4}$; corn $\frac{1}{8}$ — $\frac{3}{8}$ lower, September 1.20 $\frac{1}{2}$ — $\frac{1}{2}$; oats $\frac{1}{8}$ — $\frac{3}{8}$ lower, September 69 $\frac{3}{4}$ cents; rye $\frac{1}{4}$ — $\frac{3}{4}$ lower, September 1.17 $\frac{1}{2}$; soybeans $\frac{1}{4}$ — $\frac{3}{4}$ higher, September 2.77 $\frac{3}{4}$ — $\frac{3}{4}$.

'Kids Day' Scheduled For State Fair Today

All Children Under 12 Will Be Admitted Free

The Missouri State Fair will have Kids' Day Friday with all children 12 and under admitted free to the grounds and fair officials are expecting a big flow of children through the gates.

Thursday, Kansas City, St. Louis and Sedalia participated in the Big Thursday program, with delegations coming from both metropolitan areas. The Kansas Citians had a delegation of 22 who arrived on a chartered bus while the St. Louis Mayor's Ambassadors arrived by planes at the Sedalia Memorial Airport—18 planes with 100 people, Sedalians were all over the place.

Johnson Requests Extension

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, bent on restraining domestic spending in the face of rising Vietnam war costs, is at odds with the Senate Labor subcommittee over its proposed $5.2-billion antipoverty bill.

Johnson asked for $2.06 billion for a one-year extension of the controversial antipoverty program, but the subcommittee authorized $2.2 billion and the panel's chairman, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., attached a special $3-billion emergency riot damage and job program for slum dwellers.

The Clark program is a particular source of dismay to the administration.

In a secret memorandum to the subcommittee, an official of the Office of Economic Opportunity, the antipoverty agency, demanded that the $3-billion program be deleted from the bill.

"OEO is trying to preserve what we have," the memo says. "You know the President has requested a tax increase. If this is going to be considered it should be considered as a separate piece of legislation."

Joseph A. Califano Jr., a special assistant to Johnson, acknowledged Thursday the memo had been circulated to some subcommittee members but said no one at the White House saw it in advance.

Califano said the document correctly outlined administration misgivings about some provisions of the subcommittee bill but it was inaccurate in a number of respects.

He said the administration's primary goal is to get a bill out of the full Labor Committee and passed by the Senate by Labor Day. Clark, however, said Thursday he sees no possibility that this could be done. The Labor Committee had scheduled another executive session on the bill Thursday but could not muster a quorum.

The administration reportedly has wanted the Senate to act first on the bill because it faces severe opposition in the House.

The memorandum listing the administration's objections has now had wide circulation on Capitol Hill.

A rivalry may have been inspired by these two metropolitan areas in arranging for future delegations to the fair, "like it used to be in early days when special trains brought our people to the fair," an oldtimer remarked.

The two groups arrived at the fair at different times, but each was greeted by Commissioner of Agriculture Dexter Davis and Secretary of the Fair W. C. Askew. The Grundy R-5 high school band from Galt and Humphrey, Mo., lead both delegations in a parade to the Administration building. Shuttle buses took the visitors on a tour of the grounds after which the visitors disbanded and went visiting the various exhibits on their own.

At the noonday luncheon at the home of Secretary and Mrs. Askew on the fairgrounds. Rivalry talk began to be made between the two delegations. Jeffery Hilleson, City Councilman was elected the Kansas City spokesman, his qualification being, "he was the only man wearing a tie". Hilleson gave a few remarks saying "Kansas Citians were not able to provide a larger delegation this year because they were all at home working to build" and inferred trying to get the athletic problems settled. "You people in St. Louis have it made. But we are coming along fast and will have a bigger delegation next year than St. Louis."

Among the Kansas Citians other than Hilleson were City Councilmen Sal Capra, Mrs. Sara Snow, and Larry Blankenship. Judge Sam Montague, of the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Mayor Alphonse Cervantes, who headed the St. Louis delegation, "We in St. Louis are desiring to take a more active part in the affairs of Missouri and want to help other communities build." He then referred to the big delegations of St. Louis people who used to come to the fair, "but," he said, over the years we have been slipping. We are going to do better and challenge Kansas City to the larger delegation next year."

Fire Bombs Used

Red Chinese Mobs Continue Attacks

HONG KONG (AP)—Mobs from Red China repeatedly attacked British positions along the 17-mile Hong Kong border Thursday, set an immigration office ablaze with fire bombs and finally were driven back by tear gas. At one point the Chinese were restrained by their own soldiers.

The attack on the immigration office came at dusk at the border town of Lowu. The crowds hurled six gasoline-filled bottles and one exploded on the office roof. The fire was quickly put out.

Peking has applauded such attacks and promises to "smash the reactionary rule of British imperialism" in Hong Kong, on China's southern borders.

The attacks apparently are designed to show solidarity with the Chinese Communists in Hong Kong, who have pushed a campaign of rioting and terror since May in an attempt to undermine British authority in the colony.

There were two attacks on Lowu during the day. Both times Gurkhas, the tough little British mercenary troops from Nepal, stopped the Chinese with tear gas and smoke bombs. Several Chinese were injured.

After the second attack that hit the immigration office, Red Chinese troops halted the mobs on the Chinese side of the border.

Twice the soldiers were seen grappling with members of the mobs. One soldier was knocked down and the crowds cheered.

At one time, the sound of machine-gun fire was heard on the Chinese side. It could not be determined whether the army was firing across the border or trying to control the mobs.

Crowds attacked British positions elsewhere along the border, but were repulsed by tear gas and smoke bombs. One crowd was made up mostly of women.

Four miles east of Lowu at Man Kam To, upwards of 80 peasants armed with pitchforks and scythes tore through a barricade on a road crossing into Hong Kong. They headed for a new British border post 200 yards from the border but were driven back by tear gas.

The Communists are expected to step up border and terrorist attacks to force negotiations on an ultimatum laid down by Peking that expired Tuesday.

Peking demanded release of all persons jailed during three months of rioting, labor strife and terrorism, and the lifting of the ban on publication of three small pro-Communist newspapers.

Britain ignored the ultimatum, and the Red Chinese retaliated with an attack on the British diplomatic compound in Peking, burning out the legation offices and manhandling Britain's diplomats.

Despite repeated threats from Peking, British officials do not expect Red China to try to take over the colony because it earns too much foreign exchange for the Chinese. But nothing is certain, especially with Red China turn now by Mao Tse-tung's purge.

Marshall Man Dies In Mishap

The 15th fatality for Pettis County, and the ninth on north U.S. Highway 65 since Jan. 1, 1967, resulted from an accident a short distance south of Heath Creek bridge about 11:55 p.m. Wednesday. Killed was Roger Earl Green, 20, 560 South English, Marshall, who died at 12:40 a.m. Thursday.

Driver of the 1967 Corvette was identified as Phillip Wade Hall, 29, of 705 Leewood Drive, Marshall, who was taken to the Fitzgibbon Hospital at Marshall. His condition Thursday was reported as fair.

According to Trooper Sam E. Morris, of the State Highway Patrol, the car was being driven north at a fast rate of speed. As it made a curve on the top of the hill south of Heath Creek, the car went off the highway to the right and down into a ditch.

Morris reported the vehicle traveled approximately 273 feet, turning over several times and throwing both Hall and Green from the vehicle. Hall was found about 40 feet north of the car. The accident was charted as being two-eighths miles north of Junction D and J.

The Reser ambulance of Warsaw which had been to Columbia and was enroute back to Warsaw, came upon the wreck a few minutes after it occurred. Green was rushed to the Bothwell Hospital in Sedalia where Dr. Karl Gosner and Dr. John Lamy rendered medical treatment. Death was attributed to internal injuries in the region of the chest.

The car, reported demolished, was towed to Marshall by a wrecker from Carol's Body Shop. Hall was taken to Marshall in an ambulance from there.

Green was reported home on a two week leave from Fort Campbell, Ky., visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Green.

The body was taken to the Campbell Funeral Home at Marshall.

The Dog Days of 1967

Although we are in the midst of so-called dog-days right here at Missouri State Fair time the days are not the kind this year so familiar to Central Missouri when the sultry weather of summer usually occurs.

The term dog-days comes from the Romans, who called the six or eight hottest weeks "caniculares dies." The dog star Sirius, rising with the sun, added to its heat, hence dog-days bore the combined heat of the dog-star and the sun.

Before this appears in print the weather may warm up or it may rain "cats and dogs," the cats symbolizing down-pouring rain and dogs strong gusts of wind according to northern mythology.

In the meantime if conditions here are as moderate as they have been at night, animals at the Fair will appreciate it. The other evening driving around the grounds we noticed the occupants of the sheep and swine pavilion were really snoozing in cool comfort in the arms of Morpheus.

Speaking of departments, did you ever hear of an EAR department?

There is one and its called Emergency Relief Department under sponsorship of The American Humane Association with headquarters in Denver, Colo.

Recently the EAR Department provided prompt assistance upon request of the Michigan Humane Society in riot-torn Detroit.

Much has been written about the human aspects of this tragic event, but a sidelight overlooked is the plight of the great numbers of animal victims.

The Humane society equipped special vehicles for service in the riot areas. Staffed by a veterinarian and an assistant, an ambulance moved through the devastated area giving out food for animals at various distribution points. Families with pets were issued emergency rations. First aid was administered to injured animals, and care was given abandoned cats and dogs.

Such humane procedures on behalf of animals ought to be an inspiration for emulation by humans in relationship with their own kind day by day. If this were so, then we'd not have rioting, burning and looting the like of which is another demonstration of man's inhumanity to man and ought to be confined to wild beasts.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Alcoholic Haze Over Washington

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The flow of liquor in the nation's capital has reached such a high tide that it demands public attention.

The caricatures of the politician breathing cigar smoke and swilling scotch from a bottle, and the diplomat, his finger curled around the stem of a cocktail glass, generally are not true. But there is a convivial conspiracy to protect the growing number of alcoholics both on Capitol Hill and Embassy Row.

The finest liquors, free flowing, are available to our public officials and are not always easy to resist. Lobbyists pass out the best brands as offerings on Capitol Hill. Embassies pour the same quality booze at their diplomatic soirees.

More than one high official, not wishing to seem unappreciative of his host's taste in beverages, has had to be carried home from a Washington party.

On both sides of Capitol Hill, the hospitable atmosphere is conducive to elbow bending. Many members of Congress keep an open bar in their offices. When there is frequent voting on the Senate or House floor, bars are automatically opened in some of the ornate offices close at hand. Under tinkling cut-glass chandeliers, legislators can find the stimulation that may be lacking in the debate.

For Years, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., has led a lonely campaign against these unlicensed bars. The thought of inebriated legislators casting votes on vital national issues appalls him.

"There has never been one night session of the Senate in all my experience," Morse once told friends, "that hasn't witnessed at least one Senator making a fool of himself and disgracing the Senate."

But colleagues look upon Morse's opposition as a quaint idiosyncrasy, and the festivities between roll calls go happily on.

—Legislative Lushes—

Most names will be omitted from this report, not for lack of evidence but out of personal consideration. But House Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., has been identified by this column as an alcoholic because of his access to the nation's top military and intelligence secrets. His drinking makes him a security risk.

Rivers isn't the only notorious souse on Capitol Hill. At a party thrown by a prominent Senator, the irreverent Rep. Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, D-Mass., formally toasted the host, to the roaring delight of the other guests, as "the second nastiest drunk in town."

Another well-known Senator lay against the wall in a drunken slumber throughout President Johnson's last State of the Union address. Another showed up at a recent Jewish affair in Baltimore too unsteady to stand, let alone speak.

The guest of honor at another speaking engagement in West Virginia, a Senator whose name is a household word in this country, was located just before his speech at a different, more robust cocktail party in the same hotel. His hostess was dismayed to find him apparently too drunk to speak. But the Senator assured her: "Honey, you just point me toward the audience. All those bright, expectant faces will sober me."

Two witnesses observed another noted Senator staggering out of his office, his hat askew, in mid-afternoon. He was about to attempt a precarious descent down the marble steps of the Senate office building in broad daylight. While the witness gaped incredulously, two of his frail secretaries appeared. Teetering on high heels, they half-dragged, half-led their distinguished boss out through the door and down the stairs. The suffing of the Senator into a waiting automobile was a scene so memorable that onlookers are still able to recount it in detail.

Only the Congress would wink at such behavior from those entrusted with heavy national responsibilities.

—Cigarette Lobby Wins—

The Senate Commerce Committee will inquire how news of a "revolutionary" new cigarette filter happened to be announced on the same day John Gardner, the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, protested to Congress that the warning on cigarette packs wasn't strong enough.

Result: Tobacco stocks actually shot up after Gardner emphasized the "overwhelming evidence" that cigarettes are a health hazard.

The rights to the new filter, following some financial hocus pocus, were turned over to Columbia University. The committee will take testimony from both the filter's inventor, Robert Strickman, and Columbia's president, Grayson Kirk.

Here's what the Senators will learn:

1. The American Cancer Society appealed to Columbia University to hold back news of the filter another week so it wouldn't conflict with Gardner's statement.

2. Nevertheless, the news was leaked out simultaneously with Gardner's appearance on Capitol Hill. The timing was calculated to counteract the impact of Gardner's new warning and to benefit the cigarette companies.

3. There is no assurance that the new filter will safeguard smokers from cancer.

The third point was made by Senate Commerce Chairman Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., to this column.

"We have to be careful," he said, "about accepting claims that a safe cigarette is just around the corner. I want to encourage development of a less hazardous cigarette. But we can't under any circumstances let the public believe they can now ignore the hazards of smoking."

food. Some of India's "Pied Pipers" have gone so far as to recommend a "Rat Ministry" while the enlightened lawmakers in the United States go on feeding India's rats and refuse to pass a rat control bill in this country. In fairness to congressional members, however, those who voted against the bill say there are plenty of agencies already in existence to exterminate rats and it is largely a local matter anyway.

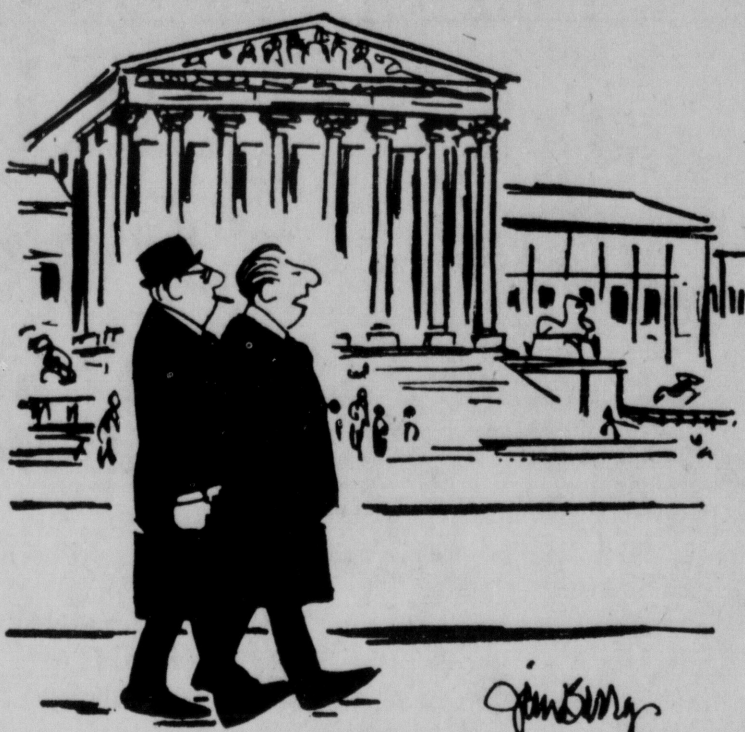

Restitution at Last

The West German government, through its consulate in Chicago, is awarding payments as high as $10,000 to persons who suffered psychic disturbances or ruined health in Nazi concentration camps.

The burden of proof of the disabilities must lie with psychiatrists and physicians who examine the applicants. Their findings are forwarded with other documentary evidence to the restitution agency in Germany. So far awards have been approved in about 60 per cent of the cases.

Although money cannot pay for the suffering and inconvenience during the years, the cash will certainly be welcomed and appreciated by the recipients. Fortunately some are still alive to receive this compensation which has been a long time coming.

Race Study Faces Negro Skepticism

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Some elements in the nation's responsible Negro community are tending to discount in advance the work of President Johnson's new commission on racial disorders.

Grumbling is heard that nothing will come of it but another paper product, another report to be filed and forgotten.

While this sounds like severe prejudice, it is in fact more a postjudgment of the largely futile 1966 White House conference on civil rights. Disillusionment over that experience is widespread among responsible Negro leaders.

They say they can see nothing of material consequence flowing from that endeavor.

In their view, the final conference report was fueled by very tough task force reports which dealt realistically with the causes of racial turbulence in the cities. Two of the nation's four straight "hot summers" were already in the record book. Documents like the McCone report on Watts could be studied.

Though the final report to the President was too long delayed and considerably watered down from the task force originals, it still offered some firm commendations.

Some disillusioned Negro moderates cannot imagine that the President's commission on disorders is really going to do any better than did the dedicated team which laid the groundwork for the 1966 conference.

What they want, obviously, is action—not more recommendations and findings.

They cannot quite shrug off the feeling that the President's institutionalized efforts to deal with racial turbulence, through first the conference and now the commission, are designed mainly to take some of the political heat out of the issue.

It added nothing to their confidence when the New York Times alleged that Johnson and his aides tried to talk Lindsay and Barr out of convening their first Urban Coalition meeting here. The purported reason: conflict with the President's new commission.

Yet, lingering in the minds of some top Negro moderates is the notion that there was at least a small germ of truth in the printed report—that the President somehow or other was trying to extract maximum political advantage from the creation of his commission on racial disorders.

To reverse what seems to be a growing tide of skepticism among even the most patient Negro leaders, the President would seem to need not only a very speedy report from his commission, but a program of action far more dramatic, forceful and convincing than anything that emerged from the 1966 conference.

Caution Needed on Taking Drugs During Pregnancy

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

(Last of two related articles)

Q—I am seven months pregnant. For the last four months I have been taking meproamate as a tranquilizer, Tylenol for headaches and Ambar to reduce. Will any of these harm my baby? Are they habit-forming?

A—Meproamate in the usual dosage is probably harmless. Acetaminophen (Tylenol) belongs to a group of drugs that may induce anemia in the fetus. Methamphetamine with phenobarbital (Ambar) is habit-forming and may cause excessive bleeding in newborns. During pregnancy the taking of drugs of all kinds should be kept to a minimum.

Q—Is it harmful to take penicillin during pregnancy? What effect will drinking alcohol have on the fetus?

A—Although some antibacterial agents (sulfa drugs and the tetracyclines) should be avoided during pregnancy, penicillin is considered safe. Alcohol in moderation has not been shown to have any adverse effect on the developing infant.

Q—My daughter says a strong-minded woman can prevent pregnancy by creating a mental block against it. Is this true?

A—Many women wish it were that simple but it isn't.

Q—What is the cause and treatment of myocardialopathy?

A—This is a general term that means any disease of the heart muscle. It includes (1) myocarditis which may be caused by several infectious diseases but most common, by rheumatic fever and (2) myocardial infarction due to an obstruction of one of the coronary arteries. The most important part of the early treatment in either case is rest.

Q—My doctor says I have a systolic murmur and a slightly enlarged heart. How dangerous is this?

A—The most common cause of this condition is rheumatic fever and the degree of damage may be widely varied. With skillful treatment further damage can be avoided and you can lead a nearly normal life.

Q—What is pulmonary heart disease? Does it require any medication?

A—Pulmonary heart disease or cor pulmonale is a failure of the right ventricle which may be due to tuberculosis, emphysema, a chest deformity or extreme obesity. The treatment would depend on the cause.

Q—A year ago I had a heart stoppage. My doctor said it was due to a heart valve being nearly closed with salt. Could this be caused by the salt poured into our water-softening system?

A—No. The salt used in water softeners removes certain salts from the water by precipitation.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Squeezes Hard To Break Up

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A New Orleans reader asks: "How do you go about breaking up a squeeze?"

If this were an Emily Post column we might reply, "Learn judo or karate." As bridge writers, all we can say is that most of the time you can't do anything about it but once in awhile you can break up declarer's line of communication.

Here is a defensive play by Bernard Tighe of Jackson, Miss., that did just that. But it is noteworthy that the lead to break up the squeeze gave declarer a chance to make his contract another way.

South won the spade lead with the ace and played out his queen of diamonds. Bernard won with the king and returned a second spade to South's queen. South led his jack of diamonds. Bernard noted that West dropped the eight and that therefore West was marked with no more diamonds. Bernard could have held South to ten tricks by ducking but he was afraid that South held both ace and jack of hearts. In that case he could see the possibility that South would make all the rest of the tricks if allowed to hold the diamond trick so Bernard took his ace of diamonds and looked around for his next play.

A lazy man would lead another spade but Bernard could see a squeeze about to develop against him. South would surely run five club tricks and cash dummy's last high spade. This would leave Bernard with only three cards and he would have to unguard either his king of hearts or nine of diamonds.

There was one way to stop this. Bernard played his six of hearts. South studied awhile. He could let that heart ride around to dummy's queen but South would look mighty silly if West held the heart king and the diamonds were going to break so South went up with his ace of hearts and was held to four odd.

Democrat Pickups

The black and white duck at the Catholic Community Center wasn't on the program for the Independent Retail Grocers annual picnic but he either aspires to be an entertainer or, as someone put it, has an appreciation of the better things of life, and was an over enthusiastic audience.

He didn't get quite as excited over the boys who played the accordions, perhaps feeling that he never could be an accordion player, but when the little girls danced, he practically did too. His little short tail feathers wiggled furiously. When other little girls sang he not only wiggled his tail feathers but kept stretching his long neck up and clacking his bill, but somehow he couldn't seem to get his songs to come out like the girls did.

The ducks always come up from the lake whenever the food serving starts, but this was an extra special good evening for the black and white duck. There was a program, too. Maybe it was a talent contest and maybe he could get an audition.

Then a small girl started chasing him and he went back to the lake as fast as his little web feet could carry him.

The duck was run off as one of the little girls was singing and a big dog seemed to feel it was his duty to take over where the duck left off, so on he walks right up to the little girl and stood there looking up at her, until someone ran him off. If they had left him there he probably would have tried to sing, too.

People were enjoying the children, and the duck and the dog saw they just were not wanted on the program. People are funny. There is a talent show coming up this fall, however, maybe the Javee Wives would like a nice talented duck to sing and dance, or a dog who is pretty certain he could steal the show. All the duck wants is a little food and an audition. H.L.

Johnson Quiets Critics' Shouts

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson bowed to pressure but found a way to take some of the load off his own shoulders after listening to 24 days of new criticism about the way things are going in South Vietnam.

Johnson, with an instinct for the middle road, Wednesday night named a 20-man delegation of prominent citizens to go to Vietnam and observe the election. They will not be supervisors. They will not make a formal report.

But they apparently will be free to say what they think individually when they return here after the election Sept. 3. Since they probably won't all agree, the chances of a continued dispute here look pretty good.

The new load of criticism began to hit Johnson July 31. There had been increasing growling about Johnson's handling of the war, particularly by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

On July 31 he introduced a resolution—the Senate hasn't acted on it yet and perhaps never will—that would greatly reduce a President's power in foreign affairs.

It would require joint approval by Congress and the President to seal any national commitment abroad. This already is required if the President wants to make a treaty. But a President can do a lot of things abroad without a treaty.

So the Fulbright idea would tie a President's hands far more than ever before.

Then on Aug. 10, 21 House Republicans called on its Foreign Affairs Committee to modify the Gulf of Tonkin resolution, which both houses approved in 1964. It pretty much gives the President a blank check on how he wants to stop Communist aggression in Vietnam.

On that same day 57 House Democrats called on Johnson to warn the ruling military regime in South Vietnam that unless it allows a fair presidential election there this country may do some rethinking about helping South Vietnam.

This following reports from Saigon that Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, running for vice president on the same ticket with Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, now head of state and running for president, had said the military junta was already making plans to retain power after the election no matter who won.

And that same day, Aug. 10, the other 10 presidential candidates opposing Thieu announced they would refuse to campaign unless assured by Thieu and Ky there would be an end to "harassment."

This was enough for some of the Senators growing ever more unhappy about the war. So on Aug. 11 a bunch of them—led by New York's two Senators, Robert F. Kennedy, Democrat, and Jacob K. Javits, Republican—began calling the upcoming elections a fraud, a farce, and a charade.

But that same day, the Thieu-Ky government invited Congress to send observers to Vietnam to insure the elections were free and open to scrutiny by all.

The Senate didn't want any part of that and rejected the invitation. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he saw no reason why Congress should involve itself. And Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said just about the same thing.

Five days later, Aug. 16, Johnson tried to soothe the senatorial fears by saying he already had told Thieu and Ky it was vital to keep the elections on the up and up and he said they promised to support the election outcome.

But that didn't soothe Javits who the next day proposed, although the Senate wasn't willing to send anyone to Vietnam to see how things really were, that the elections be postponed a month to give the civilian candidates a "real chance." But this suggestion was ignored on all sides.

Johnson held a news conference Aug. 18 and, in effect, suggested "patience, please" and then challenged Congress to repeal the Gulf of Tonkin resolution if it didn't like what he was doing.

Ky, taking extraordinary action, sent Congress itself a letter Tuesday pledging he and Thieu would abide by the election outcome, no matter who won.

And late Wednesday Johnson announced he was sending the delegation of citizens, including some senators, to Vietnam as observers. Now if the elections turn out sour, nobody can say Johnson was hiding anything.

This ought to silence his critics for a while but, as nobody knows better than Johnson, probably not for long.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: Leave National Holidays Alone. — We are all for longer weekends; they are indescribably glorious. But we look with leery eye on proposals to create more of them by artificially celebrating a number of America's national holidays on Mondays rather than on the day when they would normally fall in the course of a year. Among such holidays could be Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day and the Veterans' Day.

To look upon such days as little more than a chance for holidaying is a further step in the wrong direction. If anything is needed today, it is a clearer realization of the sacrifices and achievements which such holidays were instituted to honor. Already more and more businesses around the country operate on national holidays, these days being looked upon primarily as a chance to make money rather than as an occasion for gratitude, rededication or remembrance. This wrong trend would only be intensified if the American people came to celebrate, say, the Fourth of July at any time from June 28 to July 10.

A long weekend at the beach or on the ski slopes is healthy, happy and wonderful. But let it not be at the expense of the American's remembrance of those highlights in history which brought his nation into being and consecrated its long struggle for greatness.

In the championship 36-hole match at the women's golf tournament at the Sedalia Country Club, Mrs. L. H. Hodges defeated Mrs. L. R. Bailey, 15-up. Out of four championship tournaments in which she has played, Mrs. Hodges has won three.

Sedalia's white way was formally accepted by the city when Mayor J. L. Youngster's 'Accident' Proves to Be Good Idea

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is the result of an accident my 6-year-old had. We buy a week's supply of bread at one time and keep it in the freezer until needed. Getting the required frozen slices apart was a problem until one day my son dropped a loaf as he took it from the freezer. To his surprise, and mine, the slices fell apart with no trouble. Now I just drop the frozen loaf on the counter top and it works fine.—MRS. H. W.

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. P. M. S. can stretch her elastic belt by first letting it soak in clear water for a minute or two, blot out the excess water with a towel, close the belt to the right size and stretch over hooks or a chair back until dry. I used the back of my plastic-covered kitchen chair and it worked fine. The hooks or chair back must be the desired belt size or all is in vain.—MRS. N. G. G.

DEAR POLLY—I have only one child, a baby. I am very conscientious about getting the most for my money when buying clothes. When I buy anything for the baby, I keep the paper tag that came with it, write on it where the garment was bought, a description for identification and then, after a few washings and some wear, I can determine which brands hold up best and gauge the sizes for my next buys.—MRS. H.

DEAR POLLY—As all mothers of small children know, bibs are always a problem when traveling. They are never handy when needed. We carry a roll of paper towels and a sweater clip in the car at all times. When a bib is needed, tear off a towel (or several if you expect a real mess) and clip it around baby's neck. These disposable bibs are really handy and useful.—CAROL

DEAR POLLY—Have you ever forgotten a money-refund coupon until after the expiration date? Or perhaps you have thrown out a label needed to send in with a coupon. I solved this problem by attaching such coupons to the carton or can with a rubber band. This serves as a reminder every time I open the cupboard door.—FANNIE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I managed to burn a hole in a new suit that I had only worn once. The material is bonded to foam and the hole is just off the center front. I hope one of the readers has an idea that will help me. Thanks a lot for all the special Pointers.—A REAL FAN

DEAR POLLY—My foundation garment, with elastic shoulders, has been washed many times and as the garment gets older the elastic curls enough to be uncomfortable. I corrected this by stitching regular elastic on the top side of the shoulders and stretching this new elastic just a little while stitching. This saves an expensive garment for still further use.—DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY—I have a wooden cutting board that is warped (the long sides are curling toward the center) and I would like to know if there is something I can do to straighten it out.—JUDI

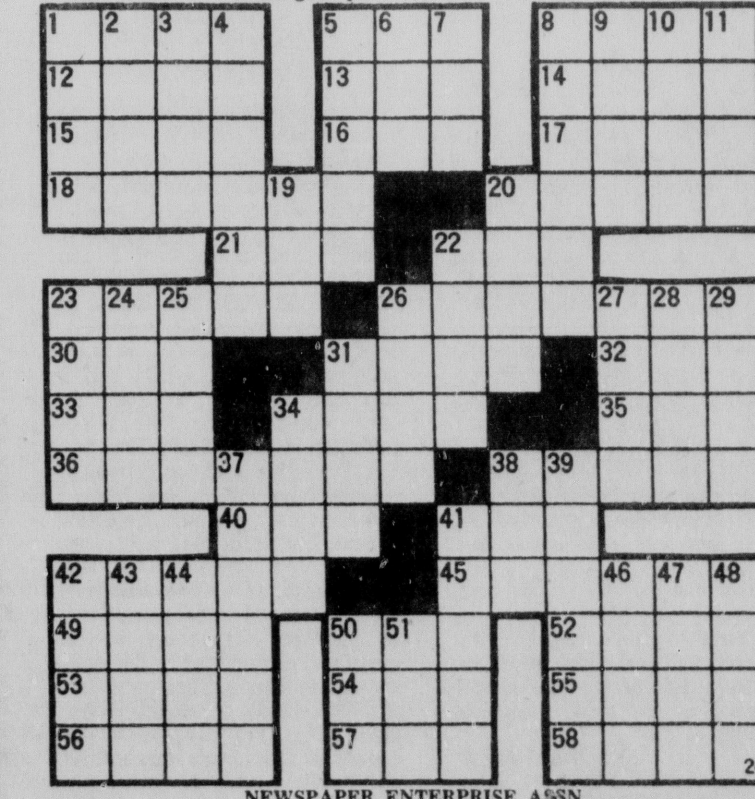

DEAR POLLY—After cutting the grass with a power mower and a rotary mower, the dandelions came up very fast again. The grass was much shorter than the dandelions, so I took an old kitchen knife (about six inches long) that was still rather sharp and removed the wood handle. I filed a little off the end of a five-cent cane, took a small screw and attached the knife blade to the base of the cane. The knife had a small hole through it where the handle had been attached. By swinging the cane as one would a golf club, I cut the dandelions off.—RONALD

DEAR POLLY—I am in a 4-H Club and we are taking a home nursing course. I would like to tell Mrs. R. M. D. the way we learned to keep a person from sliding down in bed when the head must be elevated. Take a hard pillow or folded blanket and place at the foot of the bed for the patient to brace his feet against. Or one could take a small cardboard carton or wooden box about 14 x 12 x 9 inches, pad it with a pillow or blanket and place at the foot of the bed. The support should be about two inches higher than the toes to keep the covers from pressing down on them.—JOANNE

DEAR POLLY—Cookbooks say to bake tart shells on an overturned cupcake pan, but I found it hard to cut the dough to the right size. Now I open a paper cupcake liner and trace its size on the dough, place these circles on the overturned cupcake pan and pinch the four corners. I have quick and perfect-looking tarts every time.—JEAN

Admiral Advocates Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. T.H. Moorer, new chief of naval operations, continued military leaders who advocate the intensified bombing of North Vietnam.

Moorer, who recently returned from a Vietnam inspection tour made after he became top naval officer Aug. 1, agreed with other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that the "air campaign against North Vietnam is now being prosecuted in an effective manner."

The admiral, without elaboration, also said the effectiveness of the bombing raids has been enhanced recently "by the assignment of additional lucrative targets."

Within the past few weeks, U.S. planes have been hitting more often near Hanoi and along the Red Chinese border, giving indications the brunt of the attack may be shifting to the heavily defended, politically sensitive northeast quadrant of North Vietnam.

Moorer's comments were made in prepared testimony, portions of which were given to newsmen outside the closed session of the Senate defense subcommittee.

During the past month, military leaders have increased their talk about how much the air strikes are hurting the enemy as U.S. bombing of North Vietnam intensifies.

The generals and admirals have sounded a recurring theme in statements before Congress and to newsmen: Bomb more while the enemy suffers.

Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, brought the theme to the Senate defense watchdog subcommittee Tuesday. He followed Army Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. Ulysses S. G. Sharp, Pacific commander in chief, who earlier this month made appearances before the panel.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the subcommittee and an advocate of increased bombing, said testimony by military leaders at four previous closed sessions on the Vietnam air war had impressed senators "how critical and crucial this matter is to the successful prosecution of the war."

Seasonal Drop

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A seasonal decline in nonfarm jobs during July was reported today by Herman Julien, director of employment security.

The number in July dropped 11,500 from the 1,592,000 employed in June. The July total was still 19,500 higher than July last year.

Julien attributed the seasonal drop to the automobile model changeover and the summer decrease in school jobs. The unemployment rate in July was 3.6 per cent compared with 4.2 per cent in June.
